

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

DEDICATED

to the memory of

HENRY STAUFFER,

Pioneer, who emigrated from Rhenish, Germany, in the early part of the eighteenth century and settled in Bedminster, Bucks county, Pa., and especially to his son, who seems to have been a citizen of unusual character and intelligence in his day, inasmuch as he represented in part Bucks county in the Legislature of Pennsylvania for seven consecutive years, from 1793 to 1799, both inclusive during the closing administration of George Washington, first President of the United States, and the beginning of the administration of John Adams, and was one of the first directors of the Bucks County Almshouse, and also served as Justice of the Peace and conveyancer in his community, to whom these lines are affectionately inscribed—

RALPH STOVER,

By his grandson and namesake,

RALPH STOVER,

of Point Pleasant, Pa.

December 25, 1895.

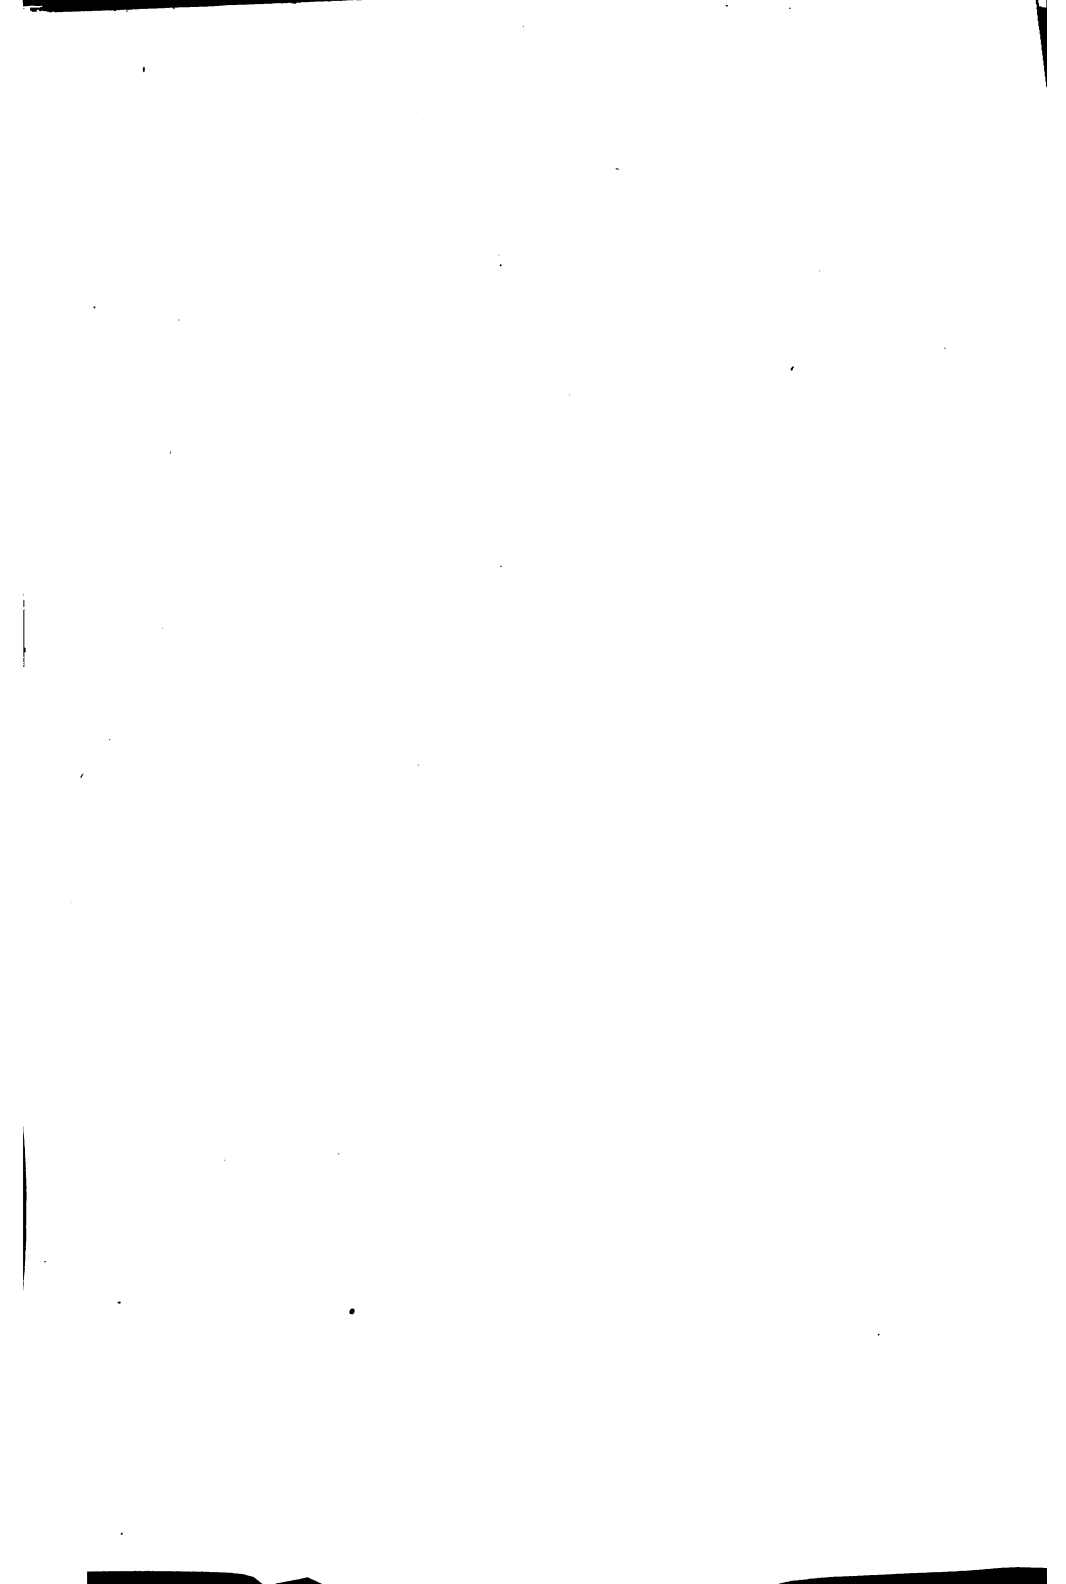

PREFACE.

We cheerfully assented to the wishes of a friend, a descendant of the pioneer, Henry Stauffer, of Bedminster township, Bucks county, Pa., to compile a genealogical history of the descendants of the family. The object of the work being to preserve from oblivion the more remote history of the pioneer and his immediate descendants, and to place upon record the names and biographies of his descendants from father to son down to the present time and generation.

It is to be regretted that the records are not more complete in some of the branches. Owing to a lack of interest in the matter, some, for reasons best known to themselves, failed to respond to inquiries for information concerning their respective families, thereby causing these defects. The effort has been in the direction of making the work as full, correct and reliable as possible. The work has been prepared at a great sacrifice of time and labor. Had all promptly responded to communications the work would have been far easier and more complete. The writer is aware that imperfections exist, but pleads in extenuation of the fact that the difficulties were insurmountable.

The author acknowledges himself indebted to the many friends for kind favors received during the compilation of this work, and while we express our sincere gratitude to all who in any way aided us, we especially acknowledge our indebtedness to those who have very materially aided us. They are as follows :

INTRODUCTION.

Few are the mortals on this earth below,
Who never wished the deeds of their ancestors to know;
And here's a family history backward traced
Until the mists of time all traces have effaced.

A history of the Stover family (name originally written Stauffer but changed by Act of Legislature to Stover) being desired by many of the descendants it was decided to have one published, if possible, and as personal recollections and records of the family were fast passing away the longer the delay the more difficult it would be to collect the necessary information to write a complete history of the descendants of nearly a century and a half. It was obvious that even at this date it would take much time and labor, since it would be necessary to interview and write letters to descendants scattered over the greater part of North America, search records, examine family Bibles, etc.

The question arose who would undertake the task. It was decided that there was no person so well qualified for the work as the Rev. A. J. Fretz, of Milton, N. J., he having written histories of the Fretz and Kratz families, the descendants of which are interwoven by marriage with the Stovers, it was evident that he must have learned much of the Stover family. It was therefore decided to request him to take the Stover history in hand, being satisfied that if his services could be secured the work would be well done. Fortunately he agreed to undertake it and set about collecting the necessary information, a task that would have appalled and disheartened anyone not accustomed to work of this kind. By untiring zeal and indefatigable labor the data has at last been collected, and the history of the family that dates back to the early settlement of this country is now completed.

We find the descendants numerous and scattered over a large section of the country. They are a thrifty and upright Christian people, who helped from its infancy to build up this great and glorious country. They cleared away the forests and tilled the land, causing fields of golden grain to wave where giant forest trees had reared their lofty heads. They built mills and factories ; assisted in the building and maintaining of churches and schools, knowing well that no community could exist and be prosperous without the blessings of the church and the learning of the schools. They were among the foremost in projecting and constructing public improvements, and as the family grew more numerous they became engaged in nearly every kind of business and profession. They have filled State and National offices of responsibility with credit and honor. Although they were a people of peace, they were ever ready to obey their country's call and defend it against its enemies. The stars and stripes which float over their graves in the cemeteries testify to their patriotism and bring to mind melancholy recollections of a time in our country's history that can never be forgotten.

Well may the descendants be proud of their ancestors ; although the record of their deeds have not been graven upon granite shafts, the industries they maintained and the nation they helped to build and defend are far better evidences of what they did. May the descendants emulate the example of their worthy ancestors and ever be found on the side of right and justice, and on the onward march of progress.

ALBERT STOVER.

KINTERSVILLE, Pa., June 18, 1896.

EXPLANATIONS.

In the preparation of this work it will be observed that all descendants are recorded in the regular order of birth, from the oldest down to the youngest throughout the entire connections, each generation being marked consecutively from first to last. The Roman numerals placed before each name are used to designate the generation to which they belong, as :—

- I. Henry Stauffer (First Generation).
- II. Ulrich Stöver (Second Generation).
- III. Mary Stover (Fretz) (Third Generation).
- IV. Joseph S. Fretz (Fourth Generation).

Beginning with the first (I) ancestor, Henry Stauffer, all his children are named in order of birth. Then follows the oldest son, Ulrich Stover (II Generation), and his children (III Generation) next. Mary being the oldest that had issue, is followed down to the last of her descendants ; then the second in order of birth of the III Generation, and so on until the end of the entire branch of Ulrich Stover, of the II Generation, is reached. Then the second son of Henry Stauffer, of the I Generation, viz, II Henry Stover, is carried down in like manner to the last of his descendants, and so on throughout the entire connections.

When marriages occur between members of the connection the husband carries the record. In all such cases a numbered reference is placed after the name and marriage of the wife, as for example (See Index of References No 1). In the Index of References will be found No 1, Barbara Stover, Page —. On the page given in the body of the book the family record is given.

In the General Index will be found the names of all males of 18 years and over, and the maiden names of all females of 18 years and over, also the pages on which their family record is given in the body of the book.

To find family records see Index of Branches, where names of all that had issue of the first, second and third generations are given.

THE STAUFFER FAMILY.

According to tradition the Stauffers owe their origin to a generation of knights called Stauffacher, at Hohenstaufen.* It is presumed that all of the Stauffer pioneers that emigrated to America at different times have the same common origin, and are more or less remotely connected, and in all probability the pioneers of this work have also their origin in the ancient House of Hohenstaufen in Suabia. A description of the House of Hohenstaufen is given in a translation from the German history by Fred Raumer, from which we glean the following :

“ In the middle of the eleventh century Frederic of Buren removed from the confined valley of Buren to the plain of Hohenstaufen, built the castle and founded the town of Hohenstaufen, and from him descended the Hohenstaufen dynasty. The House of Hohenstaufen exalted itself over all tribes and principalities until after a period of splendor and glory it was suddenly seized by a dreadful calamity and hurled into the darkest night of oblivion, leaving hardly any traces behind. At the time of the prosperity of the House of Hohenstaufen their ancestry was traced back to the ancient Emperor of France, as far back as the reign of Charlemagne. A close inquiry, however, throws some doubt on the legend.

“ Frederic of Buren, founder of the House of Hohenstaufen, was, however, beyond any doubt of Franco-Alsatian ancestry. He was equalled by none of the noblest dukes of Suabia, and was Emperor Henry IV's, of Germany, most steadfast defender and protector. He knew well under his peculiar circumstances the value of a friend like Frederic of Hohenstaufen. Therefore in the year 1079 he called him to Regensburg and said: 'Brave and vigilant man, whom I always found the truest and bravest among all, you are well aware how in the Roman Empire crime and misdeed prevailed, how through the devil's influence revolt and conspiracy are held sacred, while God's command is despised and the laws of the land tramped under foot. As you have battled in the past against all these evil sods, and as a proof how highly I appreciate your former services, and how sincerely I trust your future, I will give you my only daughter Agnes to wife and the Duchy of Suabia as a dowry.' Frederic died in 1105 leaving two sons, Frederic and Conrad, who their uncle, Henry V, adopted.

"After the death of Henry V, in 1125, the Imperial Crown was contested between Frederic and Lothaire, Duke of Saxony. Lothaire was elected by fraud. He died in 1137, childless. Frederic having died, the Crown was now again contested between Conrad of Hohenstaufen, and Henry the Proud, Duke of Saxony and heir to Lothaire. Conrad was elected March 7, 1137, and crowned March 15. He was born at Ampulia in 1093. His mother was Agnes, daughter of Henry IV. He married Gertrude, Duchess of Sulzbach, in Bavaria. His title was disputed by Henry the Proud of Saxony. A civil war ensued. Conrad gained a victory and the war was ended. In 1147 he conducted a large army of Crusaders into Palestine. He besieged Damascus but failed to take it, and returned in 1149. He died without issue in 1152, and was succeeded by his nephew, Frederick I., surnamed Barbarossa, son of Frederic, Duke of Suabia and brother to Conrad III. His mother was Judith, daughter of Henry the Black. He was elected Emperor on the death of his uncle, Conrad III., in March 1152. In 1155 he passed into Italy with an army and was crowned by Pope Adrian IV. at Rome. In 1156 he was married to Beatrice of Burgundy and reduced the King or Duke of Poland to become his vassal. In 1158 he led a large army into Italy and subjected the revolted city of Milan, which was punished with rigor. Two rival Popes, Victor IV. and Alexander III., having been elected in 1159, Frederic recognized the former and was excommunicated by the latter. His reign was disturbed by disputes with the Pope and wars with the cities of Lombardy. His army was defeated by the Lombards near Legnano in 1176. He then made peace with Pope Alexander and a truce with his other enemies in Italy. In 1183 the celebrated Peace of Constance was concluded between Frederic and the Lombards. In 1189 he joined the third crusade with an army of 150,000 men, and after having marched by land as far as Asia Minor defeated the Turks near Iconium. He was drowned in the river Calycodmis in 1190. He was ambitious but liberal, and was considered one of the greatest generals and statesmen of his age. He was succeeded by his son, Henry VI.

"Henry VI. was born in 1165. He married Constance, daughter of Roger, King of the two Sicillies, in 1185, who inherited the Throne of her father. With a view of subdividing that country he invaded it, but being unsuccessful he was obliged to return to Germany. With the ransom money which he received from his prisoner, Richard Coeur de Lion, he fitted out another expedition. After taking Naples and bring Sicily into subjection he caused himself to be crowned at Palermo. His conduct towards the Sicillians was marked with great cruelty and tyranny, and his death, which took place in 1197, was supposed to have been caused by poison. He was succeeded by his brother Philip, Duke of Suabia, and Otho IV., between whom the Crown was disputed.

"Philip, Duke of Suabia and the Emperor of Germany, son of Frederic Barbarossa, was born in 1170 or 1176. He married Irene of Constantinople. He was elected Emperor in 1198, but his title was disputed by Otho IV., which caused a civil war to ensue. The Pope favored Otho and excommunicated Philip, but was afterward reconciled to him. Philip was assassinated in 1208 by Otto Wettleben at the wedding of his niece. After Philip's assassination his wife Irene fled to Hohenstaufen and died shortly afterward in childbirth. The child also died. The two daughters of Philip were saved by the Bishop of Speyer.

"Frederic II., son of Henry VI. and Constance, was born at Jesi in 1194. He had superior talents, and was master of the Greek, Italian, French and Arabic languages. He was married at Palermo in 1209 to Constance, young and childless widow of Emrich, King of Hungary, daughter of Alfonso II., and sister to Peter II., of Aragon, Spain. He was crowned Emperor of Germany July 25, 1215, at Aix-la-Chapelle, then only 21. After the defeat of his rival, Otho, at Bovines, he was supported by the Ghibeline party in an attempt to unite Germany and Italy into one empire. The project was resisted by the Pope and the Guelphs in a long contest. In 1220 he removed his court to Naples, which belonged to him by inheritance, and in which he founded a university. In accordance with a vow extorted from him in his youth by the Pope he undertook a crusade against the Infidels in 1227, but turned back before he reached Palestine, for which he was excommunicated by Gregory IX. He renewed the enterprise in 1228, took Jerusalem and made peace with the Pope in 1230. He suppressed a rebellion raised by his son Henry, gained in 1237 a great victory over the Guelphs at Corleone, and waged war against Gregory IX. In 1245 Pope Innocent renewed the papal anathema and absolved his subjects from their allegiance. In the midst of these troubles Frederic died, in 1250. He was succeeded by his son, Conrad IV. Frederic was eminent for courage and other royal qualities, and was considered the greatest general and statesman of his age.

"Conrad IV., son of Frederic II., Emperor of Germany and King of Italy, was born at Ampulia in 1228. He was crowned King of the Romans in 1237. At the death of his father, in 1250, he took the title of Emperor, which was also claimed by William of Holland. The latter was favored by the Guelphs and by Pope Innocent IV., who excommunicated Conrad, the chief of the Ghibelines. Conrad led an army into Italy in 1251 and took Naples and other places. He died in 1254, leaving one son, Conrad V.

"Conrad, son and heir of Conrad IV., was born in the year 1252. The Kingdom of Italy was usurped by his uncle Mamfred and was offered by the Pope to Charles of Aragon, who defeated Mamfred in 1265 and made himself master of Naples and Sicily. Conrad attempted to enforce his rights, gained several battles and was finally defeated at Tegliacozzo in 1268, taken prisoner and beheaded in cold blooded murder November 29, 1268, by order of Charles of Aryan, at the age of 15.

"Thus ended the Hohenstaufen dynasty. The male sex of the late Imperial house being annihilated, all who claimed any prior family connection took to flight—one portion going to Baden, another to Bavaria, and a third to Switzerland, so that the beautiful Hohenstaufen was entirely deserted by the Hohenstaufen family and has never since been reclaimed by them."

Having given a brief sketch of the Hohenstaufen family to the end of the Imperial house of that name in 1268, it will be seen that several hundred years intervene between that period and the time of the pioneers of this work. In that period are included many generations of the family of which we have no account, and are therefore unable to give a complete line of descent. The missing links, and whether to the part of the family that settled in Baden, Bavaria or Switzerland, the pioneers of this work belong, we will leave for some future historian of the family to determine.

HENRY STAUFFER.

1. Henry Stauffer, pioneer, was born in Germany and emigrated from Rheinisch (Province of Alsace or Manheim) Prussia, to America in the early part of the eighteenth century. He was married to Barbara Hockman about 1749. She was born January 20, 1732; died February 17, 1802. It is a tradition of the family that Henry Stauffer and Barbara were married at Alsace and immediately after the ceremony stepped on board a ship for America. They settled for a time at or near Skippack, in Montgomery county, Pa., and later moved to Bedminster, Bucks county, and lived a short distance above the present site of Bedminsterville, on the farm now owned and occupied by Joseph Sine, and where they died.

It is said three brothers came to America, that they were potters along the River Rhine and manufactured fine china and porcelain ware in Alsace, France, and Germany. In America they expected to find a superior quality of clay and came here to establish a china plant, but as the clay did not turn out as was expected they turned their attention to milling and farming. One of the brothers is said to have gone South, but where the third brother went to is not known. As has already been stated, Henry Stauffer finally settled in Bedminster township, where he purchased his land from William Allen, the deed bearing date of June 12, 1762, for 213 acres and 91 perches, for which Henry Stauffer paid the sum of £400, 8 shillings and 8 pence "lawful money of Pennsylvania, with a rent yearly forever of one pepper corn, if the same shall be demanded." After the death of Henry Stauffer the homestead in Bedminster came into the possession of his son, Ulrich Stover, who was the second owner. "The deed of Henry Stover, Jacob Stover and Catharine his wife, and Ralph Stover and Catharine his wife, all of Bedminster township, county of Bucks, state of Pennsylvania, yeoman of the one part, Ulrich Stover, sons of Henry Stover, of the same township, county and state yeoman of the other part, for 213 acres and 91 perches of land in Bedminster township for 1150 pounds of lawful money of Pennsylvania with a rent yearly forever of one pepper corn if the same shall be demanded," is dated April 28, 1786.

The third owner was Henry Stover, son of Ulrich, but when he came into possession of and the amount he paid for it we have not been informed. Some time during either the lifetime of Ulrich or his son Henry portions of the homestead were divided or sold off, so that at the time the old homestead proper was sold there were but 87 acres and 42 perches remaining, which Henry Stover and his wife Barbara sold to their son, Reuben Stover, in 1855, for $4799.44. Reuben Stover was the fourth and last Stover owner of the old homestead. In 1860 Reuben Stover and wife sold the homestead of 87 acres and 22 perches to the present owner, Joseph Sine, for $5700. The house and barn were built by Henry Stover—the barn in 1808 and the house about the same time. The additions to the house and barn were built by Joseph Sine, the present owner.

The immediate neighbors of Henry Stauffer, whose lands joined his plantation, were John Fretz, Christian Stover, Jacob Overholt and Frederick Solli-day. The old family Bible of Henry Stauffer is in the possession of Aaron Stover, of Richland Centre, Pa. It contains a record of his family and also of his son Ulrich's family. It also contains some poetic descriptions that probably were composed and written by Ulrich Stover, as this and Ulrich Stover's family records seem to be the same hand writing. It reads as follows :

"Allein auf Gott setz dein vertraun,
Auf Menschen Heulf sollst du nicht bauen,
Gott ist allein der Glauben haellet,
Sunst ist Kein Glaub mehr in der welt."

The name as written in the Bible is "Stauffer," but was changed to Stover by his son, Ralph Stover, by an Act of the Legislature of Pennsylvania—presumably about the time that he (Ralph) was a member of that body. It is quite evident that Henry Stauffer and wife were members of the Mennonite church at Deep Run, where they are buried. Children : Ulrich, Barbara, Henry, Jacob, Ralph.

DESCENDANTS OF ULRICH STOVER, SON OF HENRY STAUFFER.

II. Ulrich Stover, born July 16, 1750; died November 2, 1811; married Barbara Swartz. He was the second owner of the old homestead in Bedminster and may have lived there for some years after marriage. He, however, purchased a farm and mill property at the Tohickon, in Haycock township (date of purchase not known), where his grandson, Jonas Stover, now lives. The house in which he lived was torn down and rebuilt by Jonas Stover in 1878. The farm house, owned at the present time by Reuben F. Stover, was built by Ulrich Stover for his son Joseph, who died soon after it was built. Ulrich Stover was by occupation a farmer and miller. He and wife were members of the Mennonite church, and are buried at Deep Run. Children: Elizabeth, Mary, Henry, Abraham, Jacob, Andrew, Joseph.

Ulrich Stover made his will October 13, 1811, and reads as follows:

"I Ulrich Stover of the Township of Haycock in the County of Bucks and Commonwealth of Pennsylvania miller being in Body of sound and perfect mind and memory and understanding blessed be Almighty God for the same do make and publish this my last Will and Testament in manner following (that is to say) first I give and bequeath unto Barbara my beloved wife my new house erected on the premises where I now dwell for her to occupy during her natural life I also give and bequeath unto her my said wife during her natural life yearly and every year the sum of forty eight pounds in money and from time to time to as much butter an Milch as

In August 1862 he enlisted in the 16th Pennsylvania Volunteer Cavalry, of which he was clerk for about 18 months, after which he was promoted to Sergeant Major. During the Summer of 1864 he was prostrated with chronic diarrhoea and spent several months in the hospital. After leaving the hospital he was commissioned as Adjutant of the regiment, and indisposed as he was he assumed the duties of his office at once. The regiment was engaged the following morning at the cavalry engagement of White Oak Swamp, where he was severely wounded while leading the advance guard after the retreating Confederates, the ball taking effect in the knee. He was soon afterward sent to the hospital at Philadelphia, from which he obtained "sick leave" and came home. His complaint having assumed a more serious turn the wound now became a secondary cause, and after a struggle of several months he finally died November 4, 1864. Thus ended a life that had given promise of great usefulness.

Mr Stover attended the common schools and later the Quakertown (Pa) Normal and Classical School and the North Wales (Pa) High School, after which he taught school successfully for a number of terms. He was twice elected School Director in his native township, which office he found had many and grave responsibilities. He attended the public schools until 14 years of age, when he entered the Lansdale (Pa) "Reporter" office to learn the art of printing. Four years later, or after serving an apprenticeship, he was employed on the Harleysville "News" (then in its infancy), and later was promoted to editor. After being employed on that paper for over three years he took a position as foreman on the Ambler (Pa) "Gazette," and later was employed on the Philadelphia "Press," but lost his position by a strike of the Typographical Union in that office one year later. He was again employed in the Harleysville " News " office as foreman, the paper then being owned by the A E Dambly Estate, of Skippack, Pa, and about one year later, on May 8, 1892, purchased the establishment from the estate, which he now successfully conducts. He was also founder of the Harleysville and Hatfield beneficial societies, and was elected treasurer of the former in 1894, which position he still holds (1898).

Mr Haldeman is a self-made man in every sense that the word implies. He started in life with nothing but good health and plenty of ambition, and he worked himself up by careful attention to every detail of business both as an employee and an employer. He saved his money which he invested in a building and loan association until he possessed $300. This formed the nucleus of his capital with which he started in the newspaper business.

After entering the newspaper business he took an active part in local politics, and his paper was the only one in Montgomery county that came out for Quay in his memorable fight in 1895 for control of the State Republican organization at a time when the Senator's fight was a seemingly hopeless one.

Mr Haldeman was elected an Alternate Delegate from the Seventh Congressional District to the Republican National Convention held at St Louis in 1896, and was elected a member of the County Committee and appointed on the Executive Committee during the same campaign. He is still a member of the Executive Committee. C: (VI) Ella R Haldeman, b Aug 8, 1892; Eva, b July 22, 1895.

DESCENDANTS OF JACOB STOVER, SON OF HENRY STAUFFER.

II. Jacob Stover, b May 13, 1757; d April 28, 1844; m Elizabeth Swartz. C: Elizabeth. Jacob married second wife Catharine, dau of Mathias Stover, of Franconia twp, Montg co, Pa. She died Nov 10, 1841. C: Henry, Mathias, Anna, Jacob, Abraham, Catharine, Jonas, Samuel, Isaac.

At the breaking out of the Revolutionary War of 1775 the Colonial Army, being pressed for teams and transportation equipments, demanded of Henry Stover, Sr, his wagon and horses for the use of the army. His son Jacob, then a mere lad, accompanied his father's team in the army as driver under the command of General Sullivan and hauled the army stores and sometimes the wounded soldiers. Harsh treatment, the severity of his duties and the failure to return him and his father's team to his home, as was promised his father, so disheartened the young lad that upon one occasion he determined to escape, but was not successtul. He was then placed under General Washington's command, to whom he made complaint of his former cruel treatment and of receiving food not fit to eat. The General afterward promoted him, and from that time on he hauled only General Washington's personal effects.

Jacob Stover bought the mill property on the Tohickon Creek, near Pipersville, now known as Myers' Roller Mills, of Henry H Climer Dec 27, 1784, for $7260. On this place Jacob Stover built the old stone house about 1790. About 1836 he sold the old homestead with a portion of the land to his son, Isaac Stover, who was the last Stover owner, he having sold it to George Swope about 1844. The old homestead is still standing and is owned and occupied by Noah Trauger.

About 1832 Jacob Stover built the fine brick dwelling for his son, Samuel Stover, who bought it in 1836 with the mill and about 50 acres of land.

One of the boys said to the other : " I heard some one say if you walk up to a bear and look in his eyes he will be ashamed of himself and move in another direction." This the little fellows did, and they said the bear hung his head and retreated. When they related the story it was not believed. IV. Henry Kratz, b in Bucks co, Pa, May 15, 1820 ; m Anna Stover June 1843. He is still living on a small farm at Danboro, Pa. It is said pebbles change the course of mighty streams, so little incidents often change the career of many persons, which is fully illustrated in the career of the subject of this sketch.

When a boy, attending school in a neighboring village, he did the chores and took care of the horses for a doctor, who took a fancy to him and gave him a little insight into the profession. When he was about to choose for himself his desire to study medicine was made known to his father, who unfortunately consulted his elder brother Jacob (Henry's brother), whose prompt reply was, "It will never do for a farmer's son to become a doctor." So his young ambition was unceremoniously "nipped in the bud." However, farmer Jacob's oldest boy never worried him about the propriety of becoming a doctor, for he lost no time in graduating an M D and is now a very successful practitioner at New Britian, Pa. Mr Kratz was very fond of debating societies, which flourished before and during the war of the Rebellion, and always took an active part on whatever subject was presented. He was an Abolitionist and has always been a Republican. Some sixteen years ago he was the Republican nominee for the State Legislature. Pres. C: Edwin, Alonzo, Annetta, Emily, Henry, Jourdan, Catharine, Reuben, Albert, Ellen, Anson, Fernando, all raised on a portion of the Kratz homestead.

V. Dr Edwin Augustus Kratz, born July 12, 1844. Early in life he assisted his father on the farm and attended school. His patriotic spirit and desire to defend the flag, when it was fired upon and trampled under foot by scornful rebels and traitors, was as strong as his brothers, and his determination was to go to war; but when the family council decided that only one of them could go he yielded, however hoping that he might yet have an opportunity of "fighting rebels" before the war closed. When the longed for opportunity came his choice was the Navy, but no word from his brother Alonzo for 30 days created considerable alarm in the minds of those at home for safety. It was suggested that he would have a better chance to meet him if he was in the army, hence he carried a musket. He enlisted in Philadelphia on August 16, 1864, as a private in Company A (Captain Stanton), 198th Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers (Col H G Sickel). It was known as the "Sixth Union League Regiment," which that loyal and patriotic organization recruited. The regiment was mustered into the United States service September 5, 1864, and on the 18th left Camp Cadwallader for the scene of action. They arrived at the front on the 23d and in seven days thereafter were under fire. They were assigned to the 1st Brigade (General Chamberlain), 1st Division (General Griffin), 5th Corps (General Warren), Army of the Potomac (General Meade).

Immediately after arriving at the front Mr Kratz was detailed as clerk at Brigade Inspector's headquarters, but when the regiment went into battle he was sent to his command. When he got back to his company his bayonet and accoutrements were missing. He went into the fight without any cartridges, but soon filled his pockets with those he found scattered about. With this experience he refused any further clerkship.

On October 26 he learned that his brother Alonzo had been captured three months previously and was in Danville, Va. This determined him more than ever, never to be taken alive if possible, so when he was wounded and saw the rebels face to face it gave him strength to get out of their reach before he fell exhausted. At the battle of Dinwiddie, C H (Gravelly Run), Va, March 29, 1865, he was shot through the chest, in the right arm and in the left forearm. The orderly Sergeant reported him killed, and his letter to the Captain a month later was the first knowledge of his condition. He was taken from the field to Mt Pleasant Hospital, Washington, D C, where he laid on his back for seven weeks, and was discharged from the service July 13, an invalid for life.

The battles in which he fought were : Preeble's Farm, Va, Sept 30, 1864 ; South Side Railroad, Va, Oct 27-8, 1864 ; Warren's Raid to Welden Railroad, Va, Dec 6-12, 1864 ; Hatcher's Run, Va, Feb 6-9, 1865 ; recapture of Fort Steedman, Va, March 25, 1865 ; Dinwiddie, C H, Va, March 29, 1865.

In 1867 he read medicine in Champaign City, Ill, with Dr Charles H Mills, late Surgeon of 125th Regiment Illinois Volunteers, and is at the present time resident physician of Champaign, Ill. He has occupied many positions of honor and trust. He was Supervisor of Champaign township in 1884 and again in 1893 ; Clerk of Champaign City four years ; Director of Champaign Public Library 18 years, director Champaign branch of the Illinois Humane Society, United States Examining Surgeon for Pensions 21 years, when Hoke Smith dispensed with the services of all old soldiers with one stroke of the pen, by saying that " no physician over 45 years of age is eligible ;" Captain and Assistant Surgeon Illinois National Guards, and a Past Post Commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, and is now Medical Director of the Illinois G. A. R. In politics he is a Republican, and was unanimously nominated for Mayor by the Republicans of Champaign City in the Spring of 1891, but through rum, boodle and treachery, he was, with the rest of the ticket, defeated. In 1894 he was elected County Treasurer for a four years' term. He is a 32nd degree Mason and a veteran Odd Fellow, and is enjoying the highest honors that the lodges in both orders can confer.

He was married to Anna Mary Bradley, widow of Lewis H Beidler, May 8, 1884. C: (VI) Alonzo Plumsted Kratz, b June 17, 1885; Ethel Gyola, born Oct 20, 1887; Elvin Valentine, b Mar 31, 1890.

V. Alonzo Philip Kratz, b July 26, 1845; d Feb 12, 1865. On August 8, 1862, at the age of 17, he enlisted at Doylestown as a private in Company F, 128th Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers, for nine months in the United States services. The regiment soon went to the front. His first letter was dated at Camp Wells, Va, August 12, 1862, from which it appears that army life agreed with him. He says: "We don't get victuals like at home, but what we do get is enough and healthy; soft bread comes this way once a week." After the battle of Antietam he wrote: "It was a hard fight, and I do not want to get in another like it. The rebels loaded their guns with a large round ball and three buckshot; these flew around us like hail. We loaded our muskets with a large pointed ball, and it did some execution. A soldier who has once fought for his country will never forget it, neither should he be forgotten." On January 16, 1863, at Fairfax Station, Va, he says: "Our Winter hut is built; it is of logs two feet high and our tent is the roof. It is a comfortable house that will keep us dry and warm." On March 25, 1863, he wrote from Brook's Station, Va: "We have five weeks yet to serve; we have been in several skirmishes besides the great battle of September 17 (Antietam), and there may be another big fight this Spring before our time is out. General Hooker is getting impatient at this inaction. There is some talk among the boys of re-enlisting, but I think I will go home, although I don't believe I shall be satisfied with home-life as long as the war is going on." The anticipated battle was Chancellorsville, through it he passed without a scratch, and was discharged at the end of his term of service with the following certificate : "This is to certify that Alonzo Philip Kratz was one of the most patriotic soldiers in Company F (commanded by C K Frankenfield), always at his post performing a soldier's duty cheerfully, and I can recommend him as the bravest of the brave, in meeting the foe and daring in battle. T J Kline, Orderly Sergeant, Company F, 128th Pennsylvania Volunteers."

He came home in June 1863 and seemed glad enough to get back to God's country again ; but the outdoor life of a soldier, who so often slept with the blue vault of heaven for a covering, had completely changed his disposition. It was weeks before he could sleep on a soft bed and enjoy a good meal. His patriotic spirit finally prevailed to take up arms again. He always spoke of the artillery service as being the most agreeable and least dangerous to life and limb, and that he would go in the heavy artillery next. With this object in view he went to Philadelphia shortly after New Year's day (1864) and enlisted in Battery D, 112th Regiment Pennsylvania Heavy Artillery. The regiment was, however, supplied with muskets and served as the Second Pennsylvania Provisional Volunteers, there being more demand for that branch than artillery, and he was promoted to Corporal of Company I. The regiment was mustered as " Veteran " and immediately went to the front, leaving behind 50 brave and true men, of which number he was one for detached duty in Philadelphia. After guarding various places in the city for three months he was sent to his regiment in the field, April 24.

A letter dated July 3, 1864, near Petersburg, Va, gives an account of the fierce fighting of the rebels.

at the Weldon Railroad, where they charged the Union lines six deep without breaking it; also that they had blown up two rebel forts and were mining another and a bigger one, and when ready to explode they would fight day and night, if necessary, to capture Petersburg. His last letter from the field is dated July 17, 1864, in which he says: "Have been acting as Sergeant for two months and expect to be promoted to that office as soon as the Captain recovers from wounds received in battle." The coveted promotion never came. He was captured July 29 at the explosion referred to (Burnside's mine) and carried away into captivity. He was confined in the famous Libby Prison at Richmond, Va, for a time and then removed to the stockade pen at Danville, Va. The last letter received from him was written in the latter place, dated August 3, 1864. It was mailed at Old Point Comfort and did not reach home until October 19, 1864. It was written with a lead pencil in two handwritings. The first half was his writing, which gave the date and circumstances of his capture and where he was a prisoner. The last half showed, unmistakably, that it was erased and written in another hand. This purported to give the comfortable quarters he had, the kind treatment he received at the hands of the rebels, and the quantity and quality of healthy food given him.

After the close of the war it was learned that he was an unwilling guest of rebeldom six months, and died February 12, 1865, of starvation and exposure. He is buried in the National Cemetery, Danville, Va, Grave 130, Section A, Division 4. A brave and patriotic life sacrificed for country and flag. He engaged in the following battles: Antietam, Va, September 1862; Chancellorsville, Va, May 1863;

Ream's Station (Weldon Railroad), Va, June 1864, and Burnside's Mine, July 1864.

V. Dr Annetta Kratz, born in Plumstead township, Bucks county, Pa. At the age of 4 years she attended the public schools. After attending school at North Wales and the Excelsior Normal at Carversville she commenced teaching at the age of 16. Believing it was best for women patients to be attended by women physicians she studied medicine in Philadelphia, and occupied the position of interne in the New England Hospital for Women in Boston, Mass, for 18 months. Prejudice against "women doctors" was very fierce at the time (1869) and the students of the university actually collected to mob the women students when dismissed from lecture. The ladies with quiet dignity, however, came off the victors. Miss Kratz also attended the College of Pharmacy the first year that women were admitted. After graduating in 1871 she began the practice of her profession at Lansdale, Pa, where she is also managing a drug store. In 1894 she received the appointment of Notary Public. Pres.

III. Henry S Stover, b in Bedminster twp, Bucks co, Oct 17, 1786; d at Erwinna, Pa, August 19, 1872; m Barbara Stout. She was born Sept 13, 1789; died at Erwinna Oct 14, 1858.

Mr Stover and his brothers, Samuel and Mathias, attended the Doylestown Academy at the same time. Their father provided each with a horse to ride back and forth from the school to their boarding place, a very pretty home some distance from the town. Old Mr Dubois, a man of great scholarship, was the principal, and in those days the school was well managed. Many of Pennsylvania's distinguished sons learned the lessons of refinement and culture from the kindly old man, who felt an interest in the welfare of each boy he taught. Mr Stover used to tell in a very amusing way of the primitive methods of education in his boyhood before he entered the academy, of the old schoolhouse, with its rickety stove, and of the tall schoolmaster, a little bent to get nearer the boys; severe and kindly by turns, severe where he should have been kindly and kindly where he should have been severe; of the school spring, the purest and coolest water, ice bound in Winter, bright and sparkling in Summer, the home of frogs of all sizes and voices, ranging from deep bass to little trebles. The old teacher's erudition on anatomy and physiology, not being of the most brilliant order, reasoned that the water must be unwholesome, forgetting that the tired school children had slaked their thirst at the spring years and years before; that they had been gathered to their forefathers as aged men and women, and that the ancestors of the present frogs, without a shadow of doubt, croaked their pleasure and pain in the same spring then. On this occasion the good old master told the scholars that they would bail out the spring and carry water and frogs down the hill and there empty them out. When the task was almost over an enterprising youth discovered all the frogs leaping back to the spring. The old master, when apprised of the fact, set his bucket down, mopped his reeking brow and said dolefully: "Sad ! Oh sad !" After that the frogs were left in undisputed possession.

Henry S Stover was a very just man and enterprising in business. He bought all the mill sites up and down the Delaware River so as not to have his business interfered with or cramped. He then built grist and saw mills, dams and sluice-ways, establishing a powerful plant, which is owned and run by his sons at the present time. He has five grandsons and one granddaughter owning and running grist or saw mills. He settled at Point Pleasant, where he built a flour and saw mill on the Tohickon Creek in 1810. In 1819 a lumber yard was added and a new dwelling erected. In 1832 he bought a property of Thomas Kennedy on the Delaware River, near Erwinna, Pa, on which, during the following year, a large flour mill was built, and four years later a large saw mill was added. At the present time it is carried on by his grandsons. The original mills were destroyed by fire in 1875.

Mr Stover was a man much interested in church affairs. To ministers of his own particular denomination he was never tired of giving. The little Baptist church at Point Pleasant was his pet and pride, and in the clergyman Mr Stover could never see a flaw. If you would point out the weakness and petty selfishness of a presiding elder, without argument the answer would be, "I think Brother — is a very fine man." To the beauties of nature he would call the attention of relatives and friends. Such terms as, "my son, certainly this is a very pretty sight"; or "look granddaughter, see what nature has done for us here," were so common with him as to be almost annoying to the young or careless of his companions.

The Delaware River, whose waters were so pure and beautiful to him, was an ecstatic demonstration of nature. In winding and coursing its way to the sea it watered the roots of the great trees he had planted as seeds, nuts or small whips, that now were towering high above its placid waters. He asserted that he could not see another such sight, even if taking a thousand miles journey for the purpose. The younglings of his flock agreed with him at once, although they were viewing it from a different standpoint. To them it was the right of way to the nearest watermelon patch; or that delight of all ages, a peach orchard, where the fruit was disposed of by the basket and at reasonable rates. The orchardist was a friend, almost a brother, and in their opinion could fill any high office to which he might be called. And the river? Oh yes, the "river was in the right place."

Barbara, his wife, was the daughter of Isaac Stout, of Williams, Northampton county, Pa. To the Moravian church and schools are accredited her religion and education. There are few among us that are not familiar with the beautiful Moravian Bethlehem, its churches, graveyards, and the seminary where our mothers and grandmothers went to school. So many of the Stover daughters and their relatives were educated here in religion and ethics that we cannot help but wish that the history of the Moravian martyrs, together with the able addresses of the clergy, could be compiled in brief manuscript for the Stover history, as we heard them some ten years ago at the 75th anniversary of the 5th avenue and 21st street Reformed Presbyterian church, New York. Such struggles, privations, wisdom and humility, as were recalled by Moravian preachers at that anniversary of those martyrs that the religion of our forefathers might be handed down to us, makes one proud that our ancestor, Barbara Stout, was a Moravian, a member of a church of sound doctrine and exquisite music.

It is needless to say that Barbara Stout had a fine education. It has been the ambition of more than one of her grandchildren to attain her standard of excellence in German, which she read and spoke fluently. She made it a practice to read her German Bible to her children in their early years. Her brother was the noted Dr Abram Stout, and he had a fitting rival in his sister, who was also in advance of her day and generation. Had she lived in the age of the advancement and higher education of women, our day of the lawyer's brief or physician's prescription, she would have merited a doctor's diploma and practice. Her brother, Dr Stout, is authority to-day on surgery and diseases of the alimentary tract. She, with her fine intellect, might have written a treatise on the diseases caused by ignorance of mothers in the care and training of children. She said: "Do not give a child castor oil in coffee, preserves, or other dainties, because we all would like the little one to have taste for the good things of the table. Give castor oil (if that medicine is necessary to give at all) in liquor—that is something that a child should not acquire a taste for." One of her sons (an old man) says he could never abide liquor. He could not tell the difference between brandy and castor oil. Then grandma's table was a little better than any table we children ever sat down to. Such an air of refinement—the chicken cooked to a turn, a delight to the eye as well as one's palate; such cream and sponge cake, but then grandma invented the cake receipt herself. Annie (the girl she raised) gave us the receipt as grandma taught her: "Put one and a half cups of sugar in a large pan or baker's bowl, break five new laid eggs on the sugar, beat thirty minutes by the clock, stir in one and a half cups of flour, and bake in a greased pan in a moderate oven until done." If directions are followed accurately a light beautiful cake for children and invalids is the result. This cake cut in layers makes fine jelly or chocolate cake, and with strawberries sweetened, the most delightful strawberry cake, much superior to strawberry short-cake, when eaten with cream. In her family of children and grandchildren dyspepsia is unknown, because she practiced dietetics with her "materia medica." Bap. IV. Anna S Stover (d), b Sept 11, 1812 ; m Philip K Fretz Feb 18, 1841. She was a woman of sterling character. Though naturally timid and disinclined to take an aggressive part in life, she was as unflinching in her duty as she was timid. Did an accident occur she would dress and bandage the wound with the skill and firmness of a surgeon. She had those motherly ways that could take a poor little sufferer and nurse it back to health and happiness, no matter if it were a stranger or one of her flock. She was a skillful needle-woman ; the delicate lace work, and the intricate stitches of the beautiful old-time embroidery, were handed down a generation or two by her easy methods. One could learn the lessons of fine and plain sewing, the beauties of and the adaptation of the needle to the work it was intended to perform so much more quickly from her than anyone else. She had beautiful hands and everything that she was working at looked attractive. "Mother helped me," were the words her husband would use when speaking of any enterprise in which he had been successful. Or at such times he would say, "Yes, I have made considerable money for myself and others, but mother saved it." From this can easily be seen that she was one of those home workers that will never be appreciated until the heavenly home is attained. (See Ind of Ref No 8.)

IV. Eliza Stover, b Aug 31, 1815; m Ralph Stover. (See Ind of Ref No 9.) Mrs Stover* is very closely allied to the interests of the church and neighborhood in which she lives, and her example is worthy of imitation in that she was ever ready to aid those less favored than herself. Friends, relatives and strangers were alike welcome to her home. She was never the one to complain, and with her mild, placid temperament it is no wonder that a large portion of the church work fell to her lot. Her sister once exclaimed in righteous indignation: "I wish your Aunt Eliza would think of herself a little. Her strength will give out if she keeps on at this rate, trying to cook for the whole Point Pleasant Baptist church."

Aunt Eliza never could or did think of herself, and as she no doubt has grown so used to thinking of others she will keep right on with that loving, unselfish spirit as long as she lives. An incident is recalled in which an effort was made to out-general a young minister who had been the invited guest at Aunt Eliza's well-furnished table each Sabbath. An effort was made to use strategy that would compel him to dine with some other member of the flock for one Sunday at least. Highly elated, the strategist took Aunt Eliza, who was unaware of the scheme, under her protection and out of the back door to see a Mrs H. When they returned to the front of the church all the congregation had departed to their homes, but alas, like a Peri at the gate, stood solitary and alone the minister. Not a soul had offered a cup of cold water. His countenance lit up until it was positively interesting at the prospect of a dinner, when he said: "I will have to throw myself on your hospitality again, Sister Stover." Her face was just as beaming as his, when she replied without a moment's hesitation: Certainly, come right home with me. I am pleased to have you." The next news from Point Pleasant was that the minister was duly installed, had married, and he and his wife and wife's mother were visiting at Aunt Eliza's, who afterwards gave the excuse that the parsonage was undergoing repairs.

They located at Bloomsbury, N J, where Dr Stewart assiduously applied himself to the duties of his profession, and where he very soon had an extensive and lucrative, though a hard, country practice to which for more than twenty years he gave the best energies of his life. He at length became physically unable to longer pursue the practice of his profession, and remained most of the time confined to his house under the tender care of his devoted wife, who shrank from no demands upon her, no self-denial nor sacrifice of health to minister to his wants, feeling it to be her Christian duty, though admonished of endangering her health, she persevered until she became so exhausted that she could bear the strain no longer, when other arrangements were made for the proper care of her husband, and she went to the home of her sister in Flemington, where she remained until her death. Her life for more than 36 years in the home of her adoption was an ornament and an inspiration which make beautiful her memory. Pres. No issue.

Mr Stover received what was then considered a good common school education. Soon after marriage he purchased a farm in the Delaware River valley 14 miles below Easton, moved thereon and was a successful farmer. He was also a great friend of education, and was often heard to declare he would give his children as good an education as he possibly could. With the assistance of neighbors he built the first schoolhouse in the vicinity on ground donated by him for school purposes.

There being no railroads or canals when he first occupied the farm, it was necessary to cart the produce of the farm great distances by wagon to market until the Delaware Canal and Belvidere and Delaware Railroad were constructed. He made many improvements, erecting houses, barns and other buildings. During his later years his elder sons relieved him almost entirely of the management of the farm.

After his death the widow resided on the farm with a son and daughter until her death. She was a loving mother and reared a good and virtuous family of children, a skillful housekeeper and by her good management assisted her husband very much to make farming a success. They attended the Presbyterian church. C: Susan, Lewis, Jonas, Owen, Catharine, Jacob, Sarah, Albert, Clara.

IV. Susan Stover, born January 26, 1821; died June 12, 1847; married John Christman March 12, 1840. They resided at Easton, Pa, where her husband successfully engaged in the mercantile business, but owing to his wife's failing health retired from business and purchased a small farm near Conshohocken. They afterward moved to Philadelphia. No issue.

IV. Lewis Stover, b Oct 13, 1822. He assisted his father on the farm and attended a country school. Afterward his father sent him to a most excellent boarding school at Easton, taught by Rev John Vanderveer, where he received his preparatory education. He then entered Princeton College, New Jersey, where he graduated with honors in the class of '50. He commenced to study law in Philadelphia under the direction of Hon Peter McCall, who soon became one of the professors in the law department of the University of Pennsylvania, and Mr Stover received one of the first diplomas of the law that was issued by that institution.

After being admitted to the Bar of Philadelphia he soon became a leading member, confining himself more especially to real estate equity and orphans' court practice. He opened an office opposite Independence Square, 522 Walnut street. This was a bold move for one so totally unknown in the city of Philadelphia, but by close attention to his profession, fair and honorable dealing with all classes, soon brought him a lucrative clientage, which enabled him to purchase the building in which he first opened his office and much valuable property besides in the city.

IV. Jonas Stover, b Apr 18, 1825; d Nov 24, 1826.

IV. Owen Stover, b Oct 27, 1827. His early youth was spent at home assisting his father on the farm and attending the public schools. After he had received an ordinary education he entered the school of Rev John Vanderveer, at Easton, Pa, and later the Flushing Institute, Long Island, N Y. When he had finished his education he entered the law office of John Anthon, of New York City, where he studied law and was admitted to practice. After establishing a successful business for himself his health failed and he was compelled to give up his practice and move to the country, where he engaged in farming on the old homestead farm. He turned his attention to raising truck and often ships large quantities by canal to the cities and towns along the Delaware and Lehigh rivers. Single.

III. Abraham F Stover, b May 10, 1786 ; d Feb 26, 1854 ; m Rachel, dau of John and Anna (Kratz) Fretz, of Warwick twp, Pa, about 1808. She was b Mar 30, 1787 ; d in 1870. He lived on a part of the homestead of his father in Bedminster twp, Bucks co, situated where the road leading from Doylestown to Easton crosses the Tohickon Creek. Part of the farm now belongs to Amos Kilmer. Mr Stover was a prominent and useful man. In 1817 he was elected to the Pennsylvania Legislature and re-elected in 1820. He was appointed Justice of the Peace by the Governor and was also a surveyor. In 1833 he sold his share of the homestead and removed with his family to Faquier co, Va, where he purchased a farm of 135 acres with a mill and afterward an adjoining tract of 270 acres. C: John (d young), Ralph, infant (d unnamed), Charles, Albert.

IV. Ralph Stover, b Sept 28, 1811; d Jan 26, 1896; m Eliza, dau of Henry S Stover, of Erwinna, Pa, Oct 4, 1838. *Ralph's early days were spent on the farm and attending school at the Deep Run school-house, which was then surrounded by the primeval forest. In 1824 he attended school at Springtown, Pa, taught by David McCray, and boarded with Jacob Funk, who was then postmaster at that place. Later he attended the Red Hill school, studying higher branches under the tuition of William Smith, and finished his education at Doylestown (Pa) Academy under Robert P Dubois. After this he returned home and assisted his parents farming. In the year 1833 he moved with them to Thororoughfare Gap, Faquier county, Va. Here he took charge of the flour mills his father purchased and soon built up a large and prosperous business, the mill being located in a good wheat-growing vicinity. The farmers at that time had all their wheat manufactured into flour and then carted the flour to market instead of the wheat as now. In 1841 he removed to Point Pleasant, Pa, where he purchased a saw and flour mills and other property and engaged in the manufacture of lumber, flour and feed. As railroads were not constructed at that time the Delaware River was the great highway for the transportation of lumber and logs to different markets. Immense rafts, composed of hundreds of the finest quality of white pine and hemlock logs, were floated down the stream, many of which were landed at Black's eddy, near the village, awaiting buyers. At this and other eddys Mr Stover purchased the logs to supply his mill, which he kept running continually sawing the logs into various sizes of lumber suitable for building purposes. Because of the non-construction of railroads large quantities of lumber and other material were carted back into the country, thus recognizing the necessity of better roads.

Mr Stover was one of the prime movers and projectors of the Danboro and Point Pleasant turupike, of which company he was president. He also advocated the building of the Point Pleasant Delaware bridge and served as treasurer of the company for many years. Mr Stover took great interest in educational and church affairs and done much to improve schools. He donated ground for the Baptist church, of which the family are members. He also donated ground for a cemetery on his farm, overlooking the Delaware River and surrounding scenery, in which he reserved a plot for a family burying ground. In the centre of the cemetery he erected a handsome granite monument, the base of which is 4 by 4 feet and the heighth about 10 feet, as a memorial of the sleeping inhabitants within its inclosure. The first occupant was his father, Abraham F Stover, in 1854 ;

his youngest brother, Albert F Stover, in the same year ; his mother in 1870, and his only remaining brother Charles in 1872, leaving Ralph, the only member of the family living. Of all his successes in life for which he feels grateful there is none that affords him so deep and profound gratitude as the reflection that he was the favored instrument in the hands of Providence to prepare a place and collect the remains of the whole family in one spot, so, that as in this life, they were a loving and harmonious family, and that in death their dust will not be scattered by the four winds, which makes this spot a peculiarly sacred place of family sepulchre. After a successful business career, he, with his wife, who, with untiring labor and skill, managed the household affairs and also reared a good and virtuous family, have now retired from business and are spending their declining years in the village where so many years ago they laid the foundation of their home and its comforts. Children : Robert, Mary, John, Rachel, Emeline, Horace, Eliza, Ella, Adelaide, R Chester, Annie, Albert.

He was a successful businessman and enjoyed the unlimited confidence and respect of the community in which he lived, so much so that at the close of the war, which left the Rebel States without the protection of law and order of any kind, the whole community insisted on his acting as County Magistrate, which office he filled until the reconstruction of the State Government was effected under authority of Congress. It was well understood all through the war that he was a Union man, but he did not make himself obnoxious by ill-judged intrusion of his sentiments upon others in that section where it could do no good. Thus he was left alone during the war, except when the armies of both sides repeatedly encamped on his place at Thoroughfare Gap and left neither fence or living thing of stock on the place. III. Mary Stover, born in Bucks county, Pa, Dec 15, 1787; d in New York Nov 27, 1855; m Christian, son of John and Anna (Kratz) Fretz, of Warwick twp, Pa, April 14, 1808. He was b Nov 17, 1782 ; died January 28, 1840. Mrs Fretz was a woman seldom equalled in her generation. Even at the present time, when women are doing so much for business, literature and art, she could claim a place among the best and wisest. Had she been a man her good heart, ready tact and keen sense of honor would have adorned a financier or statesman. Under her skilled fingers pictures in many colored wools grew wonderfully expressive of the patient industry and artistic soul that she possessed. Nor was plain sewing neglected by her ; shirts stitched two threads up and three down, quilts and comfortables made in the nicest manner ; rag carpet cut and sewn, spinning, knitting, and the time honored patch and darn were accomplished by her dexterity. A little white dress, still kept as an heirloom, which she made for herself when only 11 years old, shows that she was proficient at a very early age in the art that must have been handed down through the generations from the women who wrought on the fine linen of the tabernacle. Yet she can be remembered as the jolliest grandmother that ever petted and spoiled her granddaughter. This grandchild, who in her own opinion was almost as old as grandma, was well pleased that she thought her suitable company to take on the visits that she paid sisters and friends. In those days didn't we all laugh at the funny stories that were told, even if the little "we" had no spectacles to remove and wipe off on a sheer linen handkerchief. While we laughed merrily at most places the best times we had were at the old stone house at Fleecy Dale, where grandma's sister "Elisabet" lived with her son. Here it was that Aunt Betsey, grandma and the little "we" were girls together.

One of the charms at Fleecy Dale was Aunt Betsey's birds, of which mention will be made in the proper place. Thoughts will go back to the old stone house, to the good old days, to grandma and Aunt Betsey, and now that they have passed away am I wrong when I think that in the mansions in the skies with Aunt Betsey, grandma, and a sweet little angel that left a tomb marked "Edna," are the beautiful birds, and that even the dear old trumpet vine in which they used to alight is still loved by her? write of him as he was known is to write of the day after day life of the earnest loving Christian, who had at heart first his township, then his county, next his state and finally the best country that God Almighty ever gave to man. He was a man to feel for his neighbor in affliction, sickness and death, and to rejoice with him in prosperity. He was the one to stand firm when the boys of his neighborhood were driven to the wall by men who never had been boys when young and now that years had been added to their existence never would be men. In his early married life, when the older scholars wished to hold a debating society in the schoolhouse and were told that "it would be the ruin of the new schoolhouse and they could and should not use it," he maintained that "the schoolhouse had been built for the children and they could and should use it," and he would pay the damage. But Mr Fretz never had any damage to pay.

At the time of the Civil War, when the young men of other districts were going as conscripts instead of volunteers, Mr Fretz called meetings to raise the several thousand dollars necessary to free his neighborhood of conscription. But as the funds could not be raised in time he advanced the money himself, went to Philadelphia and cleared his district of the draft, though many young men of the neighborhood went as volunteers. In an adjacent township 13 young men, strangers to Mr Fretz, ran away to Canada to avoid the draft. When it was rumored that they would return to their homes the faction of the community, which proved its loyalty by disparaging that of others, made ready to meet them with howls and hisses and as much violence as the case in their opinion would warrant. Mr Fretz made a speech to the crowd, particularly to one old man, who was the most lavish in the terms, coward and copperhead on such occasions. This was the burden of his remarks : " You and I are old men, Tommy B, but we can carry a gun and shoot Rebels just as well as these young men. If we lose an arm or a leg, or all four of those members, we will not have many years to be a burden to this world. It is different with a young man ; he has a long life before him. I am ready to enlist the next man after you, Mr B. In the meantime I will receive these young men." The next week he stood on the station platform with an extended hand and a hearty "welcome home, boys." The result was that several of the lads thus welcomed were some of our best soldiers, for they enlisted afterward, while poor old Tommy skulked at home, too cowardly to accept the challenge to go to war.

In January 1845 fire broke out in the county buildings and a large shed full of straw was soon in ashes. If it had not been for the prompt help of the neighbors, Mr Fretz being the leader, no doubt lives would have been lost, as the aged and crippled could not have been removed in such great heat and smoke. Several fires occurred at the almshouse after this, but were controlled before much damage was done. On one occasion he came home with several holes burned in the back of his waist coat. When his attention was called to it he said : " I helped to put out the fire in the barn and Jack got the neighbors to put me out." Two or three times the good faithful dog climbed a ladder to get to the roof of a low building where Mr Fretz was working with a burning building in front of him, while another at his back was showering sparks unheeded by him. These sparks were noticed by Jack, who jumped on his master's now smouldering clothing with howls of distress until the neighbors extinguished the fire.

About the Summer of 1848 or '50 the cholera, which was prevalent in many parts of the country, broke out with such great virulence at the almshouse that four or five bodies, as a general thing, and sometimes seven, were buried in one grave. At first coffins were made, but that grew impossible. People were stricken in the workshops and while engaged in digging graves for others. Mr Fretz took his wife and children to her father's residence at Ervinna to remain there till all danger of infection was past. He then went to his friend, Rev Davis E Brower, and asked him to accompany him to the almshouse, as the steward was dying of the disease and his son, a young lad, was dead, but not yet buried. The poor father had begged Mr Fretz to get a hearse and have his son interred in the cemetery, as not a single undertaker could be induced to come. Finally he promised if they would lend a hearse to him. This they consented to do and Mr Fretz buried the body alone, as Mr Brower could not be spared from his post at the almshouse. Nor was this the only time. The day before the two went to the almshouse a neighbor asked, "Are you going to that cholera stricken poorhouse?" Mr Fretz said they were. At the next query, "How long are you going to stay?" Mr Brower looked rebukingly at the questioner and replied solemnly, "That remains with the Almighty." These two brave, unselfish men, desiring and receiving no reward but the safety of their neighborhood, worked all Summer until the scourge was abated.

Mr Fretz was president of the Democratic Club of Pennsylvania before and during the War of the Rebellion. He is buried in the Atlantic Ocean, off the coast of North Carolina. Farmer in Warwick twp, Pa. He was also extensively engaged in contract work, and was one of the contractors to build the horse shoe curve over the Allegheny Mountains on the Pennsylvania Railroad. Pres. C: Charles, Mary, Philip, John.

V. Mary Catharine Fretz, b in Bucks co, Pa, Jan 9, 1845; m Theodore P Austin, of New York City, Sept 8, 1868. The ceremony took place before a large congregation in the Presbyterian church at Doylestown, Pa, and was performed by Rev Silas M Andrews.

Mr Austin is the second son of David Austin, Jr, and Rebecca Besson, who were married at her father's house June 26, 1837, by Rev Holloway Hunt, of New Jersey. Rebecca Besson Austin was born in New Jersey August 25, 1813. She is still living, and with the exception of a slight attack of paralysis about a year ago her health has been good; she is still active and bids fair to live some years yet. She and her sister Rachel, four years her senior, are the only living children of John and Rachel Trout Besson, although there are many grandchildren and their descendants living in Hunterdon and Amwel counties, N J.

At the time of the marriage of Rebecca Besson Austin's parents, John Besson and Rachel Trout, of New Jersey, the old clergyman said how many he had married, but that they were the handsomest couple he had ever joined together. They always were fine looking. A picture of the wife, long in her widowhood, when the eighties sour most people, shows a sweet old face with a genuine smile. She died when very old, having picked out the passage of Scripture and hymns for her burial service. John Besson was a tall and well-proportioned man ; his hair were brown and very thick and long. He wore a cue after that colonial fashion had passed away, but it was not all pride that kept him wearing the cue for so many years, for he feared taking cold, and his fears were verified, as he had a very serious time after having his hair cut. The cue is still in the family archives. The lads and lassies would like to get it in possession and inherit from great-grandfather Besson a beautiful head of hair. His father was John Besson, an ensign in the War of 1812, whose wife, Margaret Opdyke, opposed his going, but his mother upheld him in his decision. His mother was a German and the wife of Francis Besson, who came to America in the beginning of the eighteenth century and settled in Hunterdon county, N J. Francis Besson had two children, a son and daughter. John Besson's mother was Margaret Opdyke. The Opdykes are an old Knickerbocker family. Ex-Mayor Opdyke, of New York City, and Rebecca Austin were cousins, and lived within three doors of each other on the same side of Fifth avenue, New York City, in the early seventies.

David Austin, Jr, was born in New York on Mar 15, 1810 ; died January 23, 1871. For years his place of business was on Broadway, New York City. He was a manufacturer of fine jewelry, principally diamond art work. He employed quite a number of skilled workmen, but was himself the superior craftsman of them all. He was a good citizen, born with a love of country, and did for his country in her hour of peril all that was required of him. At the time gold was at a high premium he loaned the Government $5000 in gold to carry on the war, and when the Government paid the debt in greenbacks he made no complaint, although he had to pay $280 for $100 in gold to manufacture his jewelry. As a boy Mr Austin used to go fishing in Canal street, when all above that street were farms and orchards. At that time Seventeenth and Fifth avenue (where he died) was far out of town. He said he went fishing in a brook quite near 95 Fifth avenue, but after he bought the property on Seventeenth street and Fifth avenue he found that particular stream in a fine flowing condition under the middle basement. The plumbers' bills were items to be remembered because of that brook. The city authorities vowed that his family used more water than several private families and demanded pay for it in the largest of water taxes. When he demurred and introduced the trout stream his word was not taken as to veracity, and the county maps were unearthed and the trout stream undeniably set forth as the Minnetta Creek, and hence the water tax was taken off.

The greatest change that time has made in New York, he said, was in Central Park. When he was a boy he spent his vacations at the house of his father's uncle, John Austin. Uncle John had a trusted colored man by the name of Harry, and this old man and young David were the best of friends. Harry planned how and where vacations should be spent. Central Park was wild and just the place. Harry had seen a silver fox, and what is called the cave now was that fox's home. Young David was a good shot for a boy, and there in the aristocratic cave in Central Park Harry pointed out the silver fox, and young David shot it. The feelings of young David may be imagined but not described, and Harry, bless his kindly heart, was a boy again in his delight and intensity of feelings.

Uncle John was twice married (to two sisters), but had no issue. The description of David Austin, Jr, his only sister and his brothers, of the quaint old mansion with its books, pictures, plate, etc, are very interesting now. In these days we appreciate grandfather's clock, rare old tapestries and carved mahogany furniture, the Austin coat-of-arms, and the china and silverware. One piece, a silver milk pitcher, which was used on the occasions of David's visits, he well remembered. The pitcher had a cow engraved on the side and on the side of the cow was engraved the Austin coat-of-arms with the inscription and motto in Latin, "Ne quid nimis" (not anything too much or too far). A prettier translation is, avoid extremes.

In "Manual of the Corporation of the City of New York," by D S Valentine, a list of personal taxes on property amounting to $5000 and over is given for the years 1815 and 1820. This uncle John of David Austin, Sr, is included in that list of New York's wealthy citizens. His first wife was buried in the chancel of Trinity Church. He survived his second wife, and she in all probability was buried in the body of the church. He was buried in Trinity Church yard. His parents were Thomas and Esther Austin, of Yonkers, N Y. Their children were John, Betsey, Mary, Peter, Stephen and Thomas. One of the last three must have been the father of David Austin, Sr, as John was the great uncle of David, Jr. In his (David, Jr) Bible he wrote Thomas and Esther Austin, of Yonkers, as being his great-grandparents, also the names of their children, but failed to put on record which one of the sons his grandfather was.

David Austin, Sr, and his wife, Maria Williams, moved from New York to West Farms, which is now in the corporation of New York City. They bought a place and built a house, in which they both died. The wife survived her husband about fifteen years. Little was known of the parentage of David Austin's, Sr, wife. She was left in charge of two very fine old servants of her father and mother. The mother died, leaving the little Maria. The father then brought his little daughter and her nurse to America. Her mother she did not remember, and all she remembered of her father was that he took her to a children's party at the house of one of her friends, and she also remembers that he took her, when a tiny girl, to the hair dresser to have hair dressed. This, together with white kid slippers, she remembered. The father went back to France to adjust his property there. The vessel in which he sailed was lost, and the old servants raised the little girl up. They did not know the friend of Mr Williams or his wife in America or France. The father of this daughter left money for her care until his return. Had he not taken his valuable property papers with him she would have heired a fortune, but with the vessel the passengers, crew, and her father with his papers, all went down and were lost.

In after years her children never let her get a newspaper to read that gave an account of a marine disaster or the sinking of a ship, because she would cry a week about her father after reading the account. In all probability she had heard from old uncle and auntie (as she called the old servants) considerable about her early life after her father's death, but she was taken out of apparent health to 15 years of incapacity by a stroke of paralysis. When her husband had learned what had happened to his active, faithful wife, he was so overcome that he was taken with spasms of the heart and died in a day or two after her seizure. She could only say a few disjointed words and never could read or write after the paralytic stroke.

Too much cannot be said of these old people (the old servants) who took the place of father and mother to a little child. She was educated and raised in the nicest of ways. She had the finest of china and linen, and there are blankets and feather beds in the family that show conclusively that the old servants reported correctly of the taste and wealth of her parents. She had her preserve closet that she and her daughter (the wife of the Hon William M Price) kept constantly filled with the delicacies of the season. She went three times a day to church on the Sabbath. She was a member of Dr Hardenburgh's Reformed Presbyterian church. Her son David sang in the choir and always accompanied his mother to and from church with the deference a Chesterfield might pay to the first lady of the land. She had the greatest reverence for Washington and the love for her country that the people of our day fail to appreciate, but then her husband had been a drummer boy in the Revolutionary War and a patriot from a boy. In all probability her father, being a French gentleman, had seen the effect of the disturbances of the people of his native land. Her son, David Austin, Jr, was captain of one of the militia companies of New York City. She, Maria Williams Austin, and her husband, David Austin, Sr, were buried in the Presbyterian burying ground at West Farms. In the Austin family is a large portrait by a celebrated artist of the sweetest, prettiest little woman that lived in her day, and that bright intellectual little great grandmother of the Austin girls was Maria Williams Austin. These girls are proud of the verse which is made up of the maiden names of their paternal and maternal grandmothers: Maria Williams, Rachel Trout, Mary Stover and Barbara Stout.

he fell in with the Newark Conference, in which he retained membership until his death.

He served many important charges during his active ministry, among them being First church, at Rahway ; Elizabeth avenue church, at Elizabeth ; St Paul's, Franklin street and Eighth avenue churches, in Newark ; Simpson church, Jersey City, and the church at Haverstraw, N Y. While pastor of the last named church, which he served for three years, a remarkable revival of religion occurred, in which more than 200 were converted, one-half of whom were heads of families. In 1876 he was made presiding elder of Elizabeth District, in which office he served the full term of four years with general satisfaction. His last charge was at Verona, N J, where in October 1890, his health failed. In 1891 the conference granted him a supernumerary relation, and, with his family, he took up his residence in Newark, N J.

In social life his warm heart and genial manner always secured to him a cordial welcome. He possessed the art of saying agreeable things without a suspicion of flattery. He was a careful observer of men and things, keeping well posted upon the affairs of the world, and having rare insight in discerning the characteristics of men. His sterling piety impressed itself upon all who knew him. He possessed a happy submission to the Divine will and was profoundly grateful for present mercies, which marked the meekness of this man of God. Such a spirit could not be other than a peacemaker, and as such he frequently received the pledge that he was a child of God.

Mr Arndt was by the grace of God well prepared to die. During the last year of his life he spent much of his time in carefully reading the Scriptures, observing their personal application. He often spoke in public and in private of the delight and profit he had in this exercises. Although always a man of prayer, during the last year he spent more time than formerly in the closet with the Lord. It was observed that while "reaching forth unto those things which are before" he became less and less interested in the affairs of this world, so that his hand seemed already extended "for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus." The record of a life devoted to the cause of his Master, a simple daily trust in Jesus and a steady faith in the precious promises of the word of God, were assurances that in the hour of his departure it was well with his soul. He who had promised never to leave nor to forsake him was still with him while passing through the valley of the shadow of death. Meth Ep. Children : John, Lizzie, Emily.

DAVID STAUFFER.

I. David Stauffer, pioneer, emigrated from Germany in the early part of the 18th century, probably in 1736, in company with his brothers, Daniel and Wilhelm. It is not known who he married. In all probability he settled somewhere in Nockamixon township, Bucks county, but of the exact location of the homestead and his occupation we have not been able to learn. It is traditional in the family that David Stauffer and his wife died comparatively young and left an only child—a son, David.

school successfully at Stony Point, in his native township. Leaving the school room the following year he accepted a position as head clerk in the general store of F R Boyer, of Hellertown, Pa, which he followed for several years. In the Spring of 1886 he associated himself with T T Bean in the merchandise business at Riegelsville, Pa, under the firm name of Bean & Stover. January 31, 1887, their store and contents were totally destroyed by fire. During April of the same year Mr Stover opened a store in the basement of Mechanics Hall, where he remained until October, when he removed his store to Bean Block. He continued the business for three years, when he disposed of his stock to Mr Sherrer. During the Fall of 1891 he secured the store property of Mr Warner, along the Delaware Canal, and embarked in the retail clothing and gents furnishing business, in which he has been successful.

In the Fall of 1894 he was an aspirant for the Legislature from the upper district of Bucks county, but failed to secure the nomination at the Republican convention by a close vote. He has been a director of the Riegelsville Building and Loan Association for a number of years, and is a prominent member of the Knights of the Golden Eagle, having been appointed a District Grand Chief of that organization at Williamsport, Pa, in May 1895. When Mr Stover had bought the property and paid for it he neglected to examine the records, and, after occupying the farm for a year or so, it was sold by the Sheriff to satisfy Piper's lien creditors. He afterwards acquired a property of about 40 acres in Nockamixon township, one mile south of Revere, now owned by Ferdinand Niess. CHRISTIAN STAUFFER, OF BEDMINSTER, BUCKS COUNTY.

1. Christian Stauffer, of Bedminster township, Bucks county, Pa, settled in that township in the early part of the 18th century, probably about 1730. The exact time cannot be determined, as the old deed of his property is lost. His ancestry is unknown, but it is probable that he was a pioneer emigrant and a Mennonite. He married Elizabeth, daughter of the pioneer, Hans Meyer, of Upper Salford township, Montgomery county. He owned a plantation of 181 acres in Bedminster township, adjoining lands of Henry Stauffer (now the Joseph Sine farm), Jacob Overholt, and others. He made his will January 23, 1764, which was proven September 20, 1764, and is on record in Philadelphia, Book N, page 187. The plantation he granted to his daughter Barbara and her husband, Jacob Haagman,* who were to pay £600. His other daughters, Esther and Ann, were to sign seal and deliver a title or release in their name, and no one to claim any right to the plantation afterward. His executors were his wife Elizabeth and his brother-in-law, Henry Meyer. The witnesses were John and Christian Fretz.

The homestead was owned for some years by Henry Hockman, after which it was purchased by

* Now spelled Hockman by his descendants.

Deacon Abraham Fretz, who sold it to his son Christian. Christian owned the homestead until his death, when it came into the possession of his son, Ely Fretz, who still owns a part of it, but the homestead proper is owned by his son, Rev Allen M Fretz. The children of Christian Stauffer were : Barbara, Esther, Ann, Mary, and others.

II. Barbara Stauffer, m Jacob Hackman, who made his will Nov 18, 1781, and was proven Dec 31, 1781. The homestead was bequeathed to his son Jacob and he divided his estate among his children. His executors were his brother Ulry and brother-in-law, Jacob Leatherman. C : Christian, Jacob, Abraham, Mary Ann, Elizabeth, Barbara.

CHRISTIAN STAUFFER, OF SALFORD.

1. Christian Stauffer, a pioneer emigrant and an early settler of Montgomery county, Pa, was a resident of Salford when he purchased a farm of 150 acres at Harleysville long before there was anything of a village there. The great Philadelphia road was laid out in 1735, and in 1728, when Christian Stauffer purchased the farm, it was nearly or entirely covered with timber. Christian Stauffer purchased it from a well-known speculator, Henry Pannepacker, and wife Eve, of Skippack, November 28, 1728. Mr Stauffer made the first improvements here, and here he lived and died.

After his death in 1735 his executors sold the farm to three speculators, Rev John Philip Boehm, of Whitpain township, Gabriel Shuler, of Salford, and Ulrich Stephen, whose residence is not given. But on July 13, 1742, Shuler and Stephen released their interest to Mr Boehm. On April 9, 1745, Rev Boehm and wife Anna Maria conveyed 100 acres, with improvements, to Henry Meyer, an adjoining land owner, for £100. The following August (1745) Henry Meyer and wife Elizabeth sold the same 101 acres to Nicholas Oblinger, who owned it six years, and Apr 3, 1751, Oblinger and wife Elizabeth sold 154 acres to Adolph Pannepacker, of Limerick township, who owned it five years. On June 9, 1756, Pannepacker and wife conveyed the same 154 acres to Nicholas Schwenk, who owned the farm 42 years and then sold it to their son George February 1, 1798, for $800. He owned it 18 years and kept a tavern there. He probably took away the old log buildings and built a large stone house there, which stood until about 1870. During the time that George Schwenk owned the farm he sold off some of the land, reducing the farm to 95 acres, and on March 21, 1816, sold the farm and tavern to Baltzer Heydrick, who owned it 19 years, and April 4, 1835, sold it to William Reiff, of Lower Salford. Mr Reiff immediately cut down the sign and stopped the tavern business. He owned it six years and in 1841 sold it to John Freed, who owned it 23 years and sold it in 1864 to John Binder. Mr Binder, after owning it some 20 odd years, sold it to M C Clemens and Rev J M Price, who divided the front into building lots and sold them. In 1890 Messrs Price and Clemens sold the remainder of the farm, now containing 48 acres, to William S Nice, the present owner. The property is on the east side of the pike.

It is not known when Christian Stauffer came to America, and of his life and personality nothing is known. He was a farmer and endured the hardships of a pioneer settler, and was no doubt a Mennonite. His will reads as follows :

"Sulford Township, Twenty Sixth of February one thousand seven hundred & Thirty four, five. In the name of God. Forasmuch as that my body is mortal & must dye, as other men, and in all likelihood I may not have a long time here to live, therefore I conclude it necessary to make this my last will & Testament in order that my children may possess & enjoy their share or Dividends of my Estate in severalty after my decease: And Whereas it is held that no Testament is Good without exed. I think meet to appoint my loving and trusty neighbours, Christian Allebach & Christian Meyer jun, to be my sole exeds over my rights and credits also to take care of my children, believing that they will truly & faithfully discharge their Trust therein. Wherefore I Christian Stauffer of Sulford aforesaid yeoman, Do on this day of the date hereof before, or in the presence of the under written witnesses, order and direct, by this my last will & Testament, that my said Exeds shall within six weeks after my decease, sell all my Land & Improvements, as also, all my household Goods, Chattles, Husbandry Implements, with all other that I am the proper owner of (except one over bedstead with two coverings for the same, also one Boulster & one pillow, all which I give & bequeath unto my Daughter Barbary).

Mr Wanger, the subject of this sketch, a portrait of whom, together with his charming family, which includes his mother, is given elsewhere in this work, is a gentleman of urbane manners, with a host of friends, and is without doubt the most popular of local Republican leaders.

Mr Wanger was born in North Coventry township, Chester county, March 5, 1852. He was raised on a farm and educated in the public schools of the township. Later he pursued a higher course of education in the Pottstown High school and the Hill school of the same place.

He then secured a position as teacher in one of the Chester county schools in 1869, when he was but 17 years old. His interest in local affairs was very manifest at this time, and in the following year (1870), when but 18 years of age, he began his political career, when he was made clerk in the Prothonotary's office of Chester county. In 1871 he became Deputy Prothonotary, but resigned the position at the end of the year to engage in the study of law at Norristown. This was the beginning of his career in Montgomery county.

On December 1, 1872, he was appointed deputy under the first Republican Prothonotary ever elected in Montgomery county. He continued the study of law, however, and was admitted to the Bar in December 1875.

From his earliest manhood he has battled for Republican supremacy. He was elected Burgess of Norristown at the age of 26 and was solicitor of the School Board for several years. At the age of 28 he was elected District Attorney of Montgomery county in 1880, being the first Republican District Attorney ever chosen in this county.

He was delegate to the Republican National Convention of 1880, voting continuously against the unit rule and voting for James G Blaine, until requested by the friends of Blaine to vote for James A Garfield, who was elected President of the United States at the following election in November 1880.

In 1886 Mr Wanger was renominated for District Attorney and elected by a majority of 1178, running several hundred ahead of his ticket, notwithstanding the fact that his opponent, J V Gotwalts, Esq, was one of the most popular candidates the Democracy ever nominated.

In 1889 Mr Wanger was chosen chairman of the Republican County Committee, and held the office until the end of the year, when he declined re-election.

In 1890 Mr Wanger was unanimously nominated as the Republican candidate for Congress from the Seventh Congressional District of Pennsylvania. He was defeated by only 187, although the party lost the district by 902, and Delamater by 2214. He made one of the most vigorous canvasses and actually ran away ahead of his ticket, and his defeat was due only to the failure of voters to go to the polls on election day. In 1892 he was again nominated by acclamation, and was elected by a majority of 180 votes, nearly the same number by which he was defeated two years before. After serving with distinction in the 53rd Congress, where he held positions on the Committees on Public Lands and on Railways and Canals—two important committees—he was renominated in 1894 and elected by the immense majority of 4826.

As a member of the 54th Congress Mr Wanger took a most active part in all important National legislation, particularly interesting himself in the Silver bill, Tariff acts and Indian Appropriation bill. On every question he has ably and carefully represented the interests of his constituency.

In 1896 he again became the Republican candidate for Congress and received 157 out of the 194 votes cast at the Republican Congressional Convention at Lansdale, the vote afterwards being made unanimous, and he was for the third time triumphantly elected.

In the organization of the 55th Congress Mr Wanger has been appointed Chairman of the Committee on Expenditures in the Postoffice Department and reappointed to membership on the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

He is also prominently identified with the I O O F, the I O R M, and nearly all the Masonic bodies of the State. M E. C: (VII) Lincoln Wanger, born August 18, 1885; died Sept 17, 1885. life. Mr Stover had a great desire to secure an education and in the meantime applied himself to studying in the evening and taking courses in various corres-

in Philadelphia, where he also attended various night schools. In 1893 he returned to Souderton and in

THE STAUFFER

FAMILY HISTORY

DANIEL STAUFFER.

I. Daniel Stauffer, a descendant of the ancient House of Hohenstauffen in Suabia, a generation of knights called Stauffacher, who, at the time of the freeing of Switzerland by William Tell, were wealthy farmers and rendered great assistance, was born at Alzheim or Weissenham, near Zurich, Switzerland, about 1630. He lived in the mountainous lands of Switzerland, near the city of Zurich, until after the year 1865, and was a Mennonite. He died and was buried in his native land, Switzerland. He had a son by the name of Hans Stauffer, who also lived in the Sweitz until driven away on account of his faith. It is not known whether Daniel Stauffer had other children besides his son Hans (Johannes) above mentioned or not. The name of his wife is also unknown.

DESCENDANTS OF JOHANNES, SON OF DANIEL STAUFFER.

II. Johannes Stauffer, a descendant of the ancient House of Hohenstauffen, in Suabia, was born between 1650 and 1655 at Alzheim, on the Rhine, near Zurich, Switzerland. In 1685 he married Kinget Heistand, widow of Michael Risser, and they had five children : Amelia, Elizabeth, Jacob, Daniel, Henry.

They were Mennonites and were persecuted by the Zwinglians on account of their faith and driven from their lands. In this strait all of the family except the oldest daughter emigrated to America. They left their homes on November 5, 1709, sailed down the Rhine from Weissennan on November 8 and reached London January 20, 1710, whence they came to the land of Penn (now Pennsylvania) in the Spring of the same year. They settled near the Schuylkill River, at or near Valley Forge, in Chester county.

III. Amelia Stauffer, born at Alzheim ; married Gerhart Clemens, and remained in Switzerland.

ELIZABETH, DAUGHTER OF JOHANNES

DESCENDANTS OF JACOB, SON OF JOHANNES STAUFFER.

III. Jacob Stauffer, born at Alzheim in 1696, and was only 13 years old when he emigrated with his parents to America. He was married at or near Valley Forge to Barbara —, and moved to Hereford (now Washington) township, Berks county, Pa, which was then a wilderness and the dwelling place of a remnant of an Indian tribe. He was one of the first settlers, and was the original purchaser of a plantation which adjoined the one on which the Roman Catholic chapel was afterward erected. The nearest grist mill was somewhere below Norristown, a distance of twenty miles, and he carried his grain to the mill on horseback. He died in 1780, aged about 84 years, and was buried in the Mennonite graveyard adjoining his plantation. Mr Stover and wife were members of the Mennonite ch. In 1811 he gave an acre lot to the congregations of the German Reformed and Lutheran churches in Boyertown, upon which they erected a union church. He was buried in the graveyard attached to the same, but his remains have since been removed to Fairview Cemetery, in the same town, which was also a part of his plantation. Menns. VII. Jacob Stauffer Whitman, b in Montg co Sept 12, 1827 ; m Magdalena L, dau of Jonas and Elizabeth Lefever Smale, of Engelsville, Pa, Nov 26, 1850. P O Lydon, Kan. Mr Whitman spent his early boyhood days on the old homestead, near Boyertown, Pa. His educational advantages were necessarily very limited, but his familiarity with a few books that had fallen into his hands, the taste he acquired for books and the progress he made under difficulties brought him to the notice of his uncle, Hon John Stauffer, who became interested in his education. It was through Mr Stauffer's influence that Jacob was admitted into a private school, then organized by leading families of Boyertown. His progress here was satisfactory to his uncle, who at once affected arrangements for him to pursue his studies at Marshall College, then at Mercersburg, Pa. Here he was also very successful, but the confinement, want of exercise and application to his studies proved too great a strain upon his somewhat feeble constitution, and he was compelled twice to abandon his studies for a time. After leaving college he took charge of the Boyertown Select School, which, under his management, attracted a class of excellent young men and women, many of whom continued their studies and became honored members of the learned professions. Among these were Abner K. and Jonathan K. Stauffer, Augustus S. Sassaman, Augustus L. Dechant, William G. Engle, George B. Dechant, Orlando L. Fegley, Frank R. Brunner, Amos B. Wanner, and others. This select school developed into what was known as Mount Pleasant Seminary, and was for many years a prosperous institution of learning.

In the Spring of 1851 he accepted a call to Berrysburg Seminary, in Dauphin county, Pa, and soon after founded Freeburg Academy, at Freeburg, Union county, Pa, which later became a popular training school for teachers. In the Spring of 1854 he was elected County Superintendent of Public Instruction, and in 1855 accepted the professorship of natural science in Union Seminary, at New Berlin. Later he was tendered the professorship of botany, physiology and geology in the Pennsylvania State College. He found this field well adapted to his genius and recognition, and promotion followed in rapid succession. In 1857 he received honorary degrees from the university at Lewisburg and later from a medical college at Cincinnati, O. He was made vice president of the college, and after the death of Dr Evan Pugh served as president for one year. Through his love for universal freedom Kansas had become sacred soil, and at the close of the Rebellion he accepted the position of professor of botany, physiology and geology in Baker University, at Baldwin City, Kan, and in about 1872 accepted the same position in the Agricultural College, which had been tendered him soon after his arrival in the State. After a connection of a number of years with this institution he retired to private life at Lyndon, Osage co, Kan, but unsolicited was nominated and elected County Superintendent by the Reform party, then in its infancy, and nominated for State Superintendent of Public Instruction by the memorable State Convention of the Union Labor party, which gave birth to the Populist party of Kansas.

The professor, as he is familiarly known, now (1897) resides in a beautiful grove planted by his own hands, and, having arrived at the age of three score and ten, surrounded by children and grandchildren, he and his good wife, to whom he ascribes much of his success, enjoy a contented and happy old age. VI. Hon John Stauffer, b July 4, 1792; d Nov 28, 1854; m Elizabeth, oldest daughter of Henry and Catharine (a dau of Conrad Boyer) Keely, Dec 1, 1816. She was born Oct 1, 1798; d Dec 30, 1857. Judge Stauffer purchased a part of his father's plantation in Colebrookdale twp, Berks co, Pa, and followed farming and land surveying. In 1829 he was elected to represent the Berks district in the Pennsylvania Legislature and was twice re-elected, holding the office for three successive terms. In 1840 he was made one of the Associate Judges of Berks county and served in that capacity for ten years. He declined to run for Congress, which position was offered him at a time when a nomination was equal to an election. In 1850 he founded Mt Pleasant Seminary, at Boyertown, for the higher education of the children of the neighborhood and for the preparation of young men for college. His earnest enthusiasm as an educator soon put the institution in a flourishing condition. In later years, when his health failed, he put his son Frederick in charge of the Seminary, and subsequently devised the premises to him. Its career of usefulness continued until the development of the public school system made it no longer necessary. By virtue of his high character and sound wisdom he became the arbiter of many disputes between neighbors and kinsmen, and exercised a wide influence throughout his section of country as peacemaker.

Judge Stauffer was the first to discover the genius that possessed the mind of the celebrated artist, Peter F Rothermel, the painter of the great picture, "Battle of Gettysburg." Mr Rothermel, when a boy, was employed in Mr Stauffer's office, at Boyertown, and his evidence of talent was shown in the skill with which he illustrated some deeds with drawings of the houses on the properties. In consequence Mr Stauffer took him to Philadelphia and assisted him in securing the tutelage of a Philadelphia artist. His first portrait was one of Judge Stauffer, an engraving of which appears in this volume.

He was a member of the German Reformed church and a life-long Bible student. He bequeathed to his children the following rule of life :

Make the Bible, both Old and New Testament, your rule of life.

The Lord commanded Joshua : " This book of the law shalt not depart out of thy mouth ; but thou shalt meditate therein day and night, that thou mayest observe to do according to all that is written therein : for then thou shalt make thy way prosperous, and then thou shalt have good success." —Joshua 1 : 8.

Christ saith : " Search the Scriptures ; for in them ye think ye have eternal life : and they are they which testify of me." —St John 5 : 39.

St Paul saith to St Timothy : " From a child thou hast known the Holy Scriptures, which are able to make thee wise unto salvation through faith which is in Christ Jesus." —2d Timothy 3 : 15.

" Remember the Sabbath Day to keep it holy." —Jeremiah 17 : 21, 22 ; Isaiah 7 : 13, 14, and in Ten Commandments.

" Swear not, neither by Heaven, neither by the earth, neither by any other oath : but let your yea be yea ; and your nay, nay." —St James 5 : 12. (See also Christ's Sermon on the mount. —St Matthew 6, 7.)

" Blessed are the peacemakers : for they shall be called the children of God." —Matthew 5 : 9.

Happy the men of peaceful life,
Who win to peace the sons of strife ;
They shall be called the sons of God,
The heirs of His serene above.

Almighty God, creator of men, graciously protect and bless my children and their families, and lead them in the way to happiness in this world and the world to come, and let them never be led astray, and grant that they may walk in the truth, adorned with innocence, piety and virtue, and worship Thee O God in Spirit and in truth. And in the great day of Resurrection and Judgment, grant that we may be found together before Thy Throne, and that I may be enabled to say, "Here am I, O Lord, and the children which you hast given me." I offer my requests in the name of Jesus Christ, our Lord and Saviour. Amen, Amen.

VII. Amanda Stauffer, born Dec 6, 1833 ; married Rev Augustus L, son of Rev Jacob and Mary Dechant (who came from Germany), May 2, 1854. He was born in Montgomery county, Pa, January 26, 1823. He was educated in Philadelphia, at Franklin and Marshall College, Lancaster, and at the Theological Seminary at Mercersburg, Pa. The Rev Frederick Wilhelm Von-der-Slott baptized him and Rev William Hangen confirmed him in his youth in the Keely's Reformed congregation in Limerick township. He learned the tailoring trade under William Barret, at Schwenksville, Pa, which he followed the first nine years of his manhood. But a change occurred in his history, for which he confidentially holds Providence responsible. Whether he would or not, a call impressed itself upon him, and under its force he found his way to the school at Mercersburg, where the groundwork to his preparation was firmly laid. More favorable opportunities having been offered at Boyertown, Pa, he continued his studies at the latter place for three years longer. During a period of four years he studied theology privately as opportunity offered.

In 1851 he was licensed to preach the Gospel by the Classis of Goshenhoppen at Red Hill, Pa. During his licentiate year he resided at Millerstown, Lehigh county, Pa, and supplied the Lutheran church of the Saucon charge, made vacant by the death of Rev William German. Having served this field with great acceptance to the people a number of other large inducements were offered to him, but his Reformed blood told against such a step. In 1852 he removed to Frederick twp, Montg co, Pa, and was ordained as a missionary pastor within the bounds of the Goshenhoppen Classis. The spirit of independency had been ripe in this and neighboring localities at this time, in consequence of which Pastor Dechant was obliged to be satisfied with a day of small things during the opening period of his regular ministry. But a moiety of the congregation in Frederick township proved loyal to the church and to himself on his arrival among them. Later, after severe labor and persecution, order came out of confusion under God, and Pastor Dechant today looks upon the Reformed congregation in Frederick township as one of his dearest points. He has been their pastor for fully a quarter of a century. The Huber's congregation, now Christ's church, in Douglass twp, Berks co, Pa, was opened for him at a later day. Hilltown, in Bucks co, was likewise supplied by him. The Boyertown and Sassaman's Reformed congregations sought his services. The congregation at Sumneytown came into being in 1858 and was taken under his wing in 1862. In this year the Old Goshenhoppen pastoral charge, consisting of Goshenhoppen, Frederick, Sumneytown and Pennsylvania churches, was organized, and Pastor Dechant was chosen regular minister. He supplied the charge until 1890, when he resigned on account of ill health, and his son-in-law, Rev J L Roush, was elected his successor.

Rev Dechant affords us another specimen of a self-made man. His means had been limited and his opportunities comparatively few, but he surely made the most of these. Few pastors know how to present the truth in a more forcible and effectual way than he does. At the last day he will not be condemned for having laid his pound in a napkin, we are quite sure.

He is now living with his wife and unmarried children at Pennsburg, Montg co. C: Calvin, Mary, Emma, Adelaide, Esther, Abner, Ella, John, Jacob, Charles.

He attended Mt Pleasant Seminary, Boyertown, Pa. In 1855 he entered the Sophomore class at Franklin and Marshall College, Lancaster, and graduated in 1858. He was principal of the Boyertown public school for one year ; studied law at Reading, Pa, under the late John S Richards,

AUSTIN COAT-OF-ARMS

Esq, and was admitted to the Berks County Bar on April 15, 1861 (the day President Lincoln issued his proclamation calling for 75,000 troops). On June 28, 1863, Mr Stauffer entered the Union Army in Company C, 42nd Regiment, Pa Volunteers, and remained in service until the regiment was mustered out.

In 1867 he was nominated for State Senator by the Republican County Convention, and although he carried the city of Reading and ran ahead of his ticket throughout the county, he was defeated by his Democratic opponent. He was three times elected a member of Reading Common Council and also served as president one year. He rendered distinguished services in promoting and carrying many important measures for the improvement of the city to successful conclusion, notably the removing of the market sheds from Penn Square, resulting in the erection of closed market houses ; the freeing of the three bridges over the Schuylkill River, by which the three main highways from the south and west enter the city, and the recovery, without cost to the city, of 39 acres of ground (known as the fair grounds), at the head of Penn street, and owned by the county. This tract is now converted into a park and is known as Penn's Common. Each of these measures was in turn bitterly opposed, and it was only after long and spirited contests, fought under the leadership of Mr Stauffer, that the progressive party succeeded in their efforts in behalf of the city. After six years service Mr Stauffer declined to serve any longer in the city councils, but continued to take an active interest in all public improvements while devoting himself to his law practice. In 1874 Mr Stauffer and his brother-in-law, DeB Randolph Keim, became the pioneers in the development of the Reading suburbs by establishing their homes on the southern slope of Mount Penn, overlooking the city, at a time when the advantages of suburban life were little appreciated.

Mr Stauffer has always taken great interest in educational matters, and in 1872 was elected a director of the Reading Library Company. He has been re-elected every year since and still holds the position. During the period of his service the library, for various causes, passed through many trying ordeals, and at one time its continued existence was in serious peril, but through the determined efforts of Mr Stauffer and the other directors the library building and books were saved. Since then the library has been steadily growing stronger in popular favor and in the increase of books, and is now firmly established in its own large four-story building at corner Fifth and Franklin streets. The library now has on its shelves many thousand volumes of excellent books. C: (VIII) Ella Salina Stauffer, b March 11, 1862; d May 3, 1864. (VIII) Edgar Emlen Stauffer, b March 8, 1865; died July 27, 1865.

Abner K Stauffer married second wife Mrs Mary Keim Mills in Christ Cathedral, Reading, Pa, Dec 15, 1870. She was b Dec 4, 1842; d Aug 2, 1891. The first morning after her death the following account of her life was published in the Reading "Herald":

"The Angelus bells had scarcely ceased ringing yesterday morning when, at 6.20 a m, the soul of Mrs A K Stauffer entered into the joy and rest of Paradise. Surrounded by her husband and children she quietly breathed her last and without a struggle left this world. Ten days before, when her physician told her that death was approaching, she expressed perfect willingness to die and at once made preparations for the end, receiving the Blessed Sacrament and bidding her loved ones farewell. She then patiently awaited the summons and remained conscious almost to the last, death coming as peacefully as night melts into day. Many eyes were wet with tears in St. Barnabas' church yesterday morning, when Mrs Stauffer's death was announced, and the prayers of the faithful were asked for her and for those bereaved in her death.

" Mrs Stauffer's maiden name was Mary High Keim. She was b Dec 4, 1842, in the Keim mansion, on North 5th street, which stood on a part of the site of the present postoffice, and was the second child and oldest daughter of John High Keim and Martha Elizabeth Randolph Keim. In 1855 her parents moved to Dubuque, Ia, where she studied at a Roman Catholic convent, after which she continued her education at St Mary's Hall, Burlington, N Y. Here she was a classmate of Miss Peterson, who afterwards became the wife of George W Childs, and the friendship then formed lasted through life. In 1858 her father died and she left school, returning to Dubuque, where on Sept 4, 1866, she was married to Lieut William Wirt Mills, a member of the Dubuque bar. Mr Mills died on June 29th of the following year, and in August she returned to Reading with her infant son, her mother having returned in the Fall of '66. On Dec 15, 1870, she was married to A K Stauffer, Esq, a member of the Berks county bar, who survives her with her five children—Rev William Wirt Mills, curate of Grace church, Jersey City ; John Keim Stauffer, who graduated from the Reading High school last June ; Anna Keim and Mary Virginia Stauffer, who are in the Girl's High school, and Frederick Randolph Stauffer. The following brothers and sisters survive : DeB Randolph Keim, the well-known Washington correspondent ; Edward T and Peyton R Keim, officers in the American Express Co, Kansas City, Mo ; T Beverly Keim, president of the River Foundry Co, Reading ; John Otto Keim, superintendent of the Delaware River and Lancaster Railroad, of Philadelphia, and Virginia R, wife of James A Millholland, president of the George's Creek and Cumberland Railroad, Cumberland, Md.

" Mrs Stauffer unites in herself the old Keim family of Berks and the Randolph stock of Virginia. On her father's side she was descended from Johannas Keim, who was from a family of prominent merchants of Landau, a fortified city of the Palatinate of the Rhine, who emigrated to New York in 1708 and settled in Oley in 1709, receiving a patent from the Government of William Penn, which is still on file in Harrisburg. Through the De Benneviles the Keims receive French Huguenot blood and through the Mayers the lineage is traced back to Melchior Mayer, a Stadthauptman of the free city of Ulm in 1452. By her mother she was descended from the Tuckahoe branch of the Randolph family of Virginia, and was a granddaughter of Col Thomas Beverly Randolph, one of the first graduates of West Point, and was the 10th generation from the Algonquin Princess Pocahontas.

" Mrs Stauffer was a woman of remarkable culture and a brilliant conversationalist. Besides being thoroughly informed in art, literature and history she was an indefatigable reader of the newspapers and was always well posted on the news of the day, both local and general, talking with equal ease and accuracy of information on any topic. A large library of scrap books, covering the last 20 years, are a substantial evidence of her painstaking industry, and the collection is exceedingly valuable. In these scrap books are preserved everything printed hereabouts concerning her friends and acquaintances and much of more general interest. It was not until 11 days ago that she yielded to her sickness and ceased to keep up her scrap book. For the last five years articles signed 'Mary Keim Stauffer' have been features of the "Ladies' Home Journal," Philadelphia; the "Ladies' World," New York; the "American Farmers' Home Journal," New York; the "Young Folks' Journal," New York; the "Home Queen," Philadelphia, and the "Housewife," New York. Mrs Stauffer's interest in fancy work, and her skill in all its branches found natural expression on paper, and her skill in describing her patterns clearly and giving intelligible directions made her articles much sought after and appreciated. At the time of her death she was in charge of the 'Knitting Circle,' a department of the "Home Queen." In connection with this work she had a large correspondence, reaching every part of the continent, and she was frequently called upon to make intelligible descriptions of difficult lace patterns, a work which she was always able to do. Mrs Stauffer was also an accomplished musician, being a thorough master of the piano and organ, and had a voice of phenomenal scope and melody. Before her health became impaired she was known in Dubuque and Reading as a sweet singer, her services always being freely given for charitable and the entertainment of her friends. She was a social favorite in Reading, Dubuque, Philadelphia and Washington, and was received with especial distinctions at the White House by Mrs Grant and Mrs Cleveland. She entertained a great deal and was always surrounded by friends, keeping an open house all the year.

"Mrs Stauffer was a life-long member and communicant of the Episcopal Church and was always zealous in attending to her church duties. For many years she was a volunteer organist at Christ Cathedral, playing at the daily services in Lent, and was also treasurer of the Ladies' Guild. She was a regular contributor and supporter of many charities, especially the Home for Widows and Single Women, the Bureau of Employment, the Home for Friendless Children, the Reading Hospital, and was a life member of the two first mentioned corporations. Mrs Stauffer will be sadly missed by a devoted family and a very large circle of friends, who were endeared to her by the force of her personal charms, and especially by her cheerful disposition and her cordial hospitality."

The other Reading papers and various papers in Philadelphia and elsewhere contained highly eulogistic notices of the deceased. The funeral was held in Christ Episcopal Cathedral on August 6, on which occasion tributes were paid the memory of the deceased by Revs Dr Orrick, John Long and L R Dabrymple. Interment was made in Charles Evans Cemetery.

Rev William Wirt Mills, only son of William Wirt Mills, Esq, and Mary High Keim, was born at Dubuque, Ia, July 17, 1867, and came to Reading with his mother in the same year. He was educated in the private schools of Reading, and under the instruction of Prof Edward Carroll passed the entrance examination for Lehigh University when he was less than 15 years old. After following surveying for one year he began his studies at Lehigh University, South Bethlehem, Pa, in the class of '87, and at the same time was made reporter of the university for the Bethlehem "Daily Times." He left the university at the end of the junior year to become assistant editor on the "Times," and at the beginning of the following year succeeded to the editorship, in which position he distinguished himself as a forceful and prolific writer and a successful editor. In the Fall of 1888 he gave up his newspaper career to enter the General Theological Seminary of the Episcopal Church, New York, and graduated from that institution May 20, 1891. On May 23, 1891, he was ordained deacon by Bishop Rulison, and June 9, 1892, was advanced to the priesthood by Bishop Starkey, in Orange, N. J. He served as assistant in Grace and St Mark's parishes, Jersey City, and as rector of St Barnabas' church, Camden, N J, but was obliged to abandon his work for a time on account of ill health. In March 1894 he founded St Alban's parish, Erie, Pa, and in November 1896 accepted the rectorship of the Church of the Advent, at Kennett Square, Chester county, Pa. In 1895, in conjunction with some of the leading clergymen of New York City, he founded the American Church League, an organization to defend the Episcopal Church from misrepresentation and attack in the secular papers, and also to further the interests of the church. As secretary, Mr Mills has actively pushed the work of this league. He is a large contributor to church papers, especially as a reviewer of theological books. In August 1897 he resigned his charge and became editorial writer on the Easton (Pa) "Free Press" and a contributor to the New York daily newspapers. R No 9 Lehn's Court, Easton, Pa.

VIII. Dr William Henry Mosteller, b in Vincent twp, Chester co, Pa, Mar 21, 1859; m Mary D Custer Nov 18, 1885. P O Phoenixville, Pa. Dr Mosteller was raised on the farm where his father has resided for over 45 years. After attending the public schools, Ursinus College and Pickering Institute he entered the medical department of the University of Pennsylvania in the Fall of 1881, graduating May 1, 1884. On October of the same year he opened an office at Phoenixville, Pa, where he still enjoys a large and growing practice. For twelve years he has been superintendent of St John's Reformed Sunday School, and has the reputation of being a teacher of the Word. In the Spring of 1893 he was elected Burgess of Phoenixville, which position he held in dignified honor, doing much toward improving and beautifying the town. Being an ardent Democrat like all his paternal ancestors, he has been honored by the party. In the Fall of 1894 he was nominated for the Legislature and in 1896 for State Senator. During the latter campaign he won the title of "silver-toned orator" by speaking against corporations and their destructive tendency.

Dr Mosteller has the reputation of being a gentleman and a scholar. He is a forcible and earnest speaker and is frequently called upon to lecture. His addresses on "Alcoholic Degeneracy of the Human Race" are said to be replete and full of new and practical ideas, clothed in very trenchant English. In his profession he is said to be a teacher of medicine. He filled the position as medical instructor of the Spring City and Royersford Inter-County Medical Society for over two years, giving a lecture every month. He frequently lectures to the students of Ursinus Collegè, and to the Catholic Total Abstinence Society of Phoenixville, which has a membership of 300 men. The doctor's home is one with an open latch, and he still retains the hospitable characteristics of his ancestry, ever ready to welcome his friends. Ref. C: (IX) Margaret Mosteller, b Mar 22, 1896.

co, Pa, Jan 7, 1817 ; d October 28, 1884 ; m Lydia Bechtel in 1839. She died August 1, 1852. Mr Stauffer, after receiving an early education, learned the tinsmith trade at Colebrookdale, Pa. In 1841 he removed to Norristown, Pa, and entered the employ of Abraham Eshbach. Later he entered into business for himself at Stauffer's Corner, Main and Swede streets. He was one of three who founded the Old Lutheran church at Norristown in 1848, and in later years was a very active member, holding the office of vestryman. In politics he was an old line Whig, and always took an active interest in public events in which that party had a share. In 1858, being an ardent Bell and Everett advocate, he was elected on an independent ticket to the office of Sheriff of Montgomery county, which office he faithfully and efficiently served. Later he was an ardent and loyal Republican. After his term of Sheriff expired he became proprietor of the Merchant Hotel, Philadelphia, and later engaged in farming at Pottstown Landing for some time. After relinquishing farming he moved to Norristown, where he resided until his death. Luth. C : Elvina, Jacob, Mary.

VII. John G Stauffer, b in Milford twp, Bucks co, Pa, Sept 4, 1837 ; m Sarah B Geisinger June 11, 1870. Mr Stauffer worked on his father's farm until Nov 1856, when he entered the office of the Mennonite Printing Union, at Milford Square, Pa, to learn the printing trade. This printing house published at that time a semi-monthly German paper, half religious, and called "Das Christliche Volks-Blatt." No 8 of that paper was just issued when the new apprentice entered the office. Rev J H Oberholtzer was the editor and John Schaup, an experienced German printer, was the foreman. Mr Stauffer made good progress as an apprentice, and after six months service the Printing Union held a business meeting and decided to dismiss the German foreman, owing to financial depression of the establishment, and appointed the apprentice as foreman. This position Mr Stauffer held until May 31, 1863, and also served as editor of the paper the preceding twenty months. He then took a seven-months' trip through the Western States for his health. In the Spring of 1864 he conducted his father's farm for a short time, but again entered the office of the "Volks-Blatt" as foreman and publisher, and later bought the establishment. In July 1867 he commenced to issue a small German weekly newspaper called the "Reformer," which proved a success. Later the title was changed to "Patriot and Reformer" and the paper increased in size. In 1880 the circulation was 1600 copies.

In June 1881 he moved his family and the printing office to Quakertown, Pa, and in August printed the first number of the "Quakertown Free Press," an English weekly paper, which was also a success. In July 1882 he sold the "Free Press" to Uriah S Stauffer, one of his apprentices, who has edited and published the paper ever since. In 1886 he also sold the "Patriot and Reformer" to the owner of the "Free Press," who later sold it to Daniel G Stauffer, of Milford Square, a brother to John, who now publishes the paper under the title of "Familien Freund." In January 1876 Mr Stauffer started a new German monthly, an undenominational religious paper, and called "Das Himmel's Manna" (Heavenly Manna). The paper is for young and old, and is suitable for a Sunday school paper. In January 1879 he issued an English paper, of the same nature as the German, called "The Manna." He still continues to publish both papers up to the present time, the circulation varying from 9000 to 12,000 copies monthly. In April 1885 he started another German religious paper called "Die Kirche Unterm Kreuz" (The Church Under the Cross), which he published successfully for four years and then discontinued it for lack of time. Since November 1895 he has published a religious monthly paper, called "Crown of Glory," for the Holiness Christian Church, of which Rev H G Trumbauer, of Reading, is the editor. POQuakertown, Pa. He was a farmer, and until about ten years ago owned a farm of 165 acres, adjoining the Swamp Reformed church, near Spinnerstown, Pa. This is one of the finest farms in that section of the State. Menns. C : Peter, John.

VIII. Peter High Stauffer, b near Bechtelsville, Pa, February 28, 1852 ; m Augusta E Miller, of Ashland, O, Sept 1875. When about one year of age his parents purchased a farm about one mile north of Spinnerstown, in Lower Milford twp, Lehigh co, Pa. Here he spent his boyhood days and attended the district school. When a lad of 16 years he went to Wadsworth, Medina county, O, to attend the educational institution of the Mennonite Church, where he took a four years' course. After leaving this institution he attended the Kentucky University, at Lexington, Ky, one year. At this time the Upper Milford Mennonite church decided to call a new pastor and cast lots. Two of the young members, Uriah S Shelly and the subject of this sketch, were selected to enter the contest, and Mr Shelly was chosen as the pastor.

Mr Stauffer then entered the office of the "Mennonitische Friedensbote," at Milford Square, Bucks county, Pa, where he started the publication of a young folks paper, called "Our Home Friend," which in less than two years attained a circulation of over 12,000 copies. During the first year of its publication he had charge of the Sunday school department of the "Mennonitische Friedensbote," the official organ of the Mennonite Church of the United States. He afterward bought a job printing office at Quakertown, which he sold a year later, and in 1878 purchased the "Advocate," a weekly county newspaper, at Loudonville, Ashland county, O, which he has published continuously since that time and made it one of the best newspaper properties in that section of the Buckeye State.

He is a Republican in politics. In 1870 he was nominated by the Republicans of Ashland county as their candidate for member of the State Legislature, but on account of the county being strongly Democratic he was defeated by a greatly reduced majority. He is the author of two popular songs, "My Childhood's Happy Home" and "Mother's Saturday Night," which have had phenomenal sales. P O Loudonville, O. Mennonites. C: (IX) Gilman Wayne Stauffer, b in Bucks co, Pa, Aug 21, 1876. He is now preparing himself for the medical profession, (IX) Clara Irene Stauffer, b in Ohio Nov 26, 1879; d Sept 27, 1893.

VIII. John H Stauffer, born in Lower Milford twp, Lehigh co, Pa, Dec 30, 1854; m Emma Focht. His boyhood days were spent on the farm and during the Winter he attended the district school in the Hosen-sack Valley, about two miles distant. At the age of 17 his father sent him to the Mennonite College at Wadsworth, O, where he remained about three years. He afterward spent one year at the Millersville (Pa) State Normal School, and also taught a few terms at Emaus and Milford Square, Pa.

Early in life he developed the faculty of vocal music, possessing rare talents in that particular direction. At the age of 17 he was already teaching the people of his community the art of singing, working on the farm in the daytime and teaching vocal music at night. After leaving his native State he was engaged for about ten years in the musical convention field, traveling through the Middle and Western States, also teaching one year in the University of Lebanon, O. For the last twelve years Mr Stauffer has devoted most of his time to sacred cantata work, like "Jephtha," "Esther," etc., having given some of the most successful entertainments that have ever been given in this line in Philadelphia, Easton, Allentown, Pa, and other cities. At the present writing he is in the midst of his work in the State of South Carolina. Mr Stauffer is also manager of the "National Music Bureau," publishers of sheet music and music books, with the main office at Allentown, Pa. His name is also known throughout the whole United States as a very popular writer of late songs. His plantation song, "Old Virginia Shore," written twelve years ago, is considered by critics one of the best compositions of that class published today. All of his other songs have sold by the thousand, viz: "Rock-a-Bye-Baby," "Whippoorwill's Call," "Life is too Short," and "Little Girls we met Upon the Trains." R Allentown, Pa. Menns. No issue.

REV. WILLIAM STOVER

FRANKLIN COUNTY, PA.

WILLIAM STOVER, OF FRANKLIN COUNTY,
PA, AND HIS DESCENDANTS.

BY J M STOVER, OF FRUITDALE, ALA.

I. Rev William Stover (Stauffer), born in Switzerland 1725;* emigrated to America in 1754. After a probable brief sojourn in the vicinity of Germantown he removed to Franklin county, Pa, and later to Cumberland. He secured by patent from the English Government and by homestead large tracts of land in Antrim township, near Shady Grove, Pa, on the farms now owned by a Mr Stewart, Wesley Koontz and others. As defence against the Indians, who were troublesome in those early days, he erected a large fort of limestone, with walls eight or ten feet high, which was used as a garden in time of peace. The fort stands almost in perfect condition to this day and is still used for the farm garden. Here, in times of Indian raids, the neighbors assembled, driving their teams and stock in the enclosure. On the west side is a heavy walled stone building, used as a dwelling through which ingress and egress to the fort was made. On the east side was a substantial stone barn with entrance from the fort, so that in time of trouble the family could pass in safety from the house to the barn without danger of being surprised and carried away by the Indians. The house still stands with its walls in perfect condition, but the barn was recently torn down and a new building erected.

William Stover was ordained first bishop of the Antitum German Baptist congregation, in which he labored faithfully for many years. He died in 1800 and was succeeded as bishop by his son, Daniel Stover, who presided over the same congregation until 1822. In those early days the church services were held in private dwellings, and the yearly meetings, or love feasts, were held in large barns, being little more than a mission post until 1790, when the Antitum, or Price's church, was erected. It was built of limestone and located one mile north of Waynesboro, Pa. This church stood 100 years, when, in 1890, it was replaced by a new structure of stone on nearly the same site, and a number of the great-grandchildren of Bishop William Stover, Sr, assisted in its building.

The old homestead was owned by five successive generations of Stovers before it passed out of their hands. William Stover was married to a Miss Shæffer. He died at the age of about 75 years, and was buried in the family burying ground on the farm, the resting place of many other friends and relatives. C: George, William, Margaret, Michael, Daniel, Jacob, Emanuel, Susanna, Esther, Catharine, Barbara.

II. Dr George Stover, b in Switzerland in 1748 ; d in Virginia July 12, 1826 ; m Hannah Price.* She d in 1792. Dr George Stover came with his parents to America in 1754. He was educated in German and English and was a physician. After marriage he settled at the Kinnikinick Creek, in Franklin co, Pa, and after his second marriage went to Virginia, settling on a farm near Amsterdam, in Botetourt county. Here he practiced medicine and became distinguished as a physician. It is said that he and his brother Emanuel heired the west half of the old homestead in Franklin county, now owned by Wesley Koontz. Dr Stover afterward sold out his interest to Emanuel, taking payment therefore in Continental

*Daughter of John Price, son of Johannes Price. Johnnes, was a son of Jacob "Priess," who was among the first German Baptists that came to America in 1719 on invitation from William Penn, on account of religious persecution, and who lived and died near Harleysville, Pa. It is said he was half brother to the then King of Prussia, of the house of Hapsburg, and left Prussia on account of the war against the family, bringing with him an only son, who, it is said, was a delicate youth. Fearing he might not live to manhood his father allowed him to marry when yet quite young in order to perpetuate the race. After the birth of his son John, he died, and a few months after his death a second son, Daniel, was born. Daniel remained on the homestead. John went to the Cumberland Valley and settled near Waynesboro, Pa. He was the ancestor of the Price family.

V. George Henry Stover, b in Botetourt co July 31, 1839 ; m Sophia A Meyer in the Spring of 1862. At the age of 11 years Mr Stover came with his parents to St Joseph co, Ind, where he engaged in farming up to the present time. Besides the district schools he attended the High school at Mishawaka, Ind, one year ; the High school at South Bend, Ind, one year, and Franklin College, Ind, two years. In the Spring of 1859 he started for Pikes Peak and landed at Chico, Cal, on September 11. There he taught school two terms of four months each and kept book at a lumber camp until the Spring of 1861, when he returned home. He landed in New York on March 4, the day of Lincoln's first inauguration. In the Spring of 1862 he again embarked in teaching school and taught two terms of four months each. He also served as Assessor and Trustee of his township for a number of years. In the Spring and Summer of 1865 he made a trip across the plains to Virginia City, Mont, with an ox team, on a freighting expedition, returning home late in the Fall of the same year.

He served as Deputy Treasurer of St Joseph county in 1887 and '88, when he was elected County Treasurer for two years, and re-elected 1890 for another term. Just before the close of his term he was elected a member of the Legislature of Indiana for a term of two years. Since the expiration of the legislative term he has resided on his farm near the city of South Bend, Ind. C: William, Ella.

V. Hon William Charles Stover, b in Botetourt co, Va, July 11, 1841; m Jane M White Feb 16, 1869. She was b in Mercer co, Pa, Feb 23, 1848; d Feb 27, 1879. In the Fall of 1851 Mr Stover moved with his parents to South Bend, Ind, where he remained for the subsequent decade of years. The desire to pass through the scenes of life on the frontier became too strong to be resisted, and following the dictates of this inclination for travel and adventure, he traversed the plains, reaching Colorado in the Spring of 1860. After his arrival in this section of the West he spent a few weeks in "prospecting" the various sections of the territory, and his investigation resulted in the selection of the Cache-la-Poudre Valley as an abiding place. A portion of the years of 1861 and

1862 Mr Stover spent on the old California stage route on the Sweetwater River, in Wyoming. During the "sixties" he traveled extensively over the section of country designated as the "Great West," and a few months of 1863, '64, '65 and '66 were spent in Montana, where he was interested in business enterprises. It was during the reign of the vigilance committee that Mr Stover was in Montana, and his recollections of the exciting events of those days are interesting and thrilling. Mr Stover was an eye witness to the hanging of Jack Shade, the noted outlaw, by the vigilants at Virginia City, Nev.

During his long residence in Colorado he has been identified with many important business enterprises. He has mingled some in politics, but not as a politician. He was a member of the Territorial Council in 1873, a working member of the convention in 1876 which framed the constitution of Colorado, the candidate of his party for Lieutenant Governor in 1880, and for Governor in 1888. He never sought political honors, but never refused to serve the people in any place where his services were needed. He has long been known throughout the State as a prominent stockman, and at present occupies the responsible position as president of the Poudre Valley Bank, of Fort Collins, Col. He resides at Fort Collins in his handsome residence on Remington street.

Mr Stover is a blonde of the sandy type, and a compactly built, fine looking man. He takes earnest, practical views of life, is sincere in thought and action and a conscientious Christian gentleman. His nature is characterized by an abundance of genuine humor. When attending to business matters he wears a serious face, but when business matters have been laid aside he is the most jovial of companions. He is a good talker and his conversation flows smoothly, touching upon various themes and topics that are always of interest. He tells a story well, and as he possesses an inexhaustible fund of border reminiscences his powers of narration are frequently put to the test. He has a well-rounded character, and his appreciation of the lights and shades of real life is thorough. He will laugh with his friends when they are in sunshine, but when surrounded by the shadows his tears will mingle with theirs. He is a sober man of business, a sympathizing friend and a genial companion of the gayer hours. He may be classed among men of decided opinions, is not easily prejudiced, and is never obstinate. He does not jump hastily at conclusions, but when he reaches a conclusion he is satisfied and the argument is closed. He is ever willing to do absolute justice to his fellow-men, in thought, word and deed, and no man is capable of rendering a fairer, more unbiased opinion than he. Above all he is generous, and it is well known that his interest is easily enlisted in all enterprises of a charitable nature. He is progressive in his views, always up with the times, and the kind of a man that makes the world better, because he knows his duty and does it. He is true to his own inborn sense of right, and lives :

“For the cause that lacks assistance,
For the wrongs that need resistance,
For the future in the distance,
And the good that he can do.”

Common and High school courses were obtained at Fort Collins, saving short periods in Greeley, Col, and Greenville, Pa. In 1887 he went to Denver University for an elective course in the academic and collegiate departments. He was a member of Phi Alpha Literary Society, University Cornet Band, and played foot ball.

In 1890 he entered the medical college of Denver University. He had made some money as a stenographer and in a mining stock venture, so that by occasional work at stenography during the course he was enabled to partly pay his own expenses. Graduating in medicine and surgery in 1893 a competitive examination gave him the position of assistant resident physician in the Arapahoe County Hospital, Denver. This position was retained for one year, when he located at Eaton, Col. After a successful practice of nearly three years here he sold out and went to New York and Baltimore, engaging in post-graduate work in hospitals and laboratories. In 1897 he returned to Colorado and established offices in Denver with a complete modern equipment, including a fine X-ray outfit, one of the first three or four such in the State. Immediately upon locating in Denver he was made assistant in medicine in the Denver University Medical College. He was also called to the professorship of chemistry in the Colorado Dental College, but for professional reasons declined.

While at Eaton he organized and was made president of the Weld County Medical Society. He is a subscriber and contributor to a number of medical publications, besides being engaged in scientific research in connection with medical subjects. In May 1898 he resigned from the Denver Medical College and joined the faculty of Gross Medical College as assistant professor of medicine and lecturer on electrotherapeutics. At the same time he was appointed to the staff of St Anthony's Hospital as hematologist. He is a member of the American Medical Association, the Colorado State Medical Society, the Rocky Mountain Inter-State Medical Association, the Denver and Arapahoe County Medical Society, and is president of the Alumni Society of Denver Medical College. He is also a Mason and a Noble of the Mystic Shrine.

About 1792 his father removed to Botetourt co, Va, and settled at Amsterdam, and afterward removed to the Big Lick, now Roanoke City. George inherited a small estate from the Price family. He also owned half interest in a distillery at the foot of Mills Mountain, on the Tinker Creek, which he conducted for five years. He bought a farm adjoining the Tombstone graveyard and lived thereon until September 1, 1832, when he sold the farm and moved to Montgomery county, Ind. Here he settled on a tract of 320 acres on Haw Creek, near Ladoga, out of which he and his sons cleared a large farm. He lived an active and unrepachable life in church and State and died without an enemy. He was the highest type of American manhood, fully conscious of the rectitude of his own conduct and brave in the assertion of his individuality. Ger Bap, later Christian ch. V. Gilbert H Stover, born in Montg co, Ind, Nov 24, 1840 ; m Margaret A Flager Feb 13, 1862. She died Aug 30, 1871. On account of school disadvantages and the great demand for his help on the home farm his entire schooling was limited to about eighteen months, but by taking advantage of the singing, spelling and geography night schools he received a very fair knowledge of the common branches. When 19 he removed with his parents from the Hoosier State to Warren county, Ia, where he purchased a farm. In 1870 he removed with his family to Labette county, Kan, where he engaged in farming and fruit raising for 25 years. On account of hard work and industry his health, which was failing, would not permit him to live on the farm longer, and in the Fall of 1895 he sold his property and removed to Altamont. Here he is engaged in raising fruit on a small scale, and his younger children are attending the High school. Mr Stover is a man of marked integrity, and has for many years been a member of the Christian church.

JACOB, SON OF BISHOP WILLIAM STOVER.

II. Jacob Stover, b 1759. Descendants not found.

DESCENDANTS OF EMANUEL, SON OF BISHOP WILLIAM STOVER.

II. Emanuel Stover, born on the old Stover homestead, in Franklin county, Pa, in 1761 ; d in 1833 ; m Susan Price (sister to his brother's, Dr George Stover, wife). They lived and died on the west half of the old homestead, now owned by Wesley Koontz, he having bought out his brother's, Dr George Stover, interest in that part of the farm, where he carried on a thriving tannery in connection with farming. He also engaged in distilling, which had been carried on by his father, but this business was later discontinued by Emanuel Stover. It seems odd that a distillery was carried on by such strict church people in those temperance times. Still it should be said in this connection that in those days nearly all large farmers and land owners manufactured their own apple and peach brandy, and occasionally some rye whiskey as well. It was, however, finally decided by the annual conference of the German Baptist Church that no member should be allowed to manufacture, handle or sell intoxicating liquors of any kind, which has been strictly carried out.

During the lifetime of Emanuel Stover the sickle was the only means of harvesting wheat and rye crops, and Mr Stover being an extensive farmer 25 to 30 men were employed with sickles to gather his crops. They gripped the grain with the left hand, and using the sickle in the right a swath the entire length of the field was cut and bound as they returned. No other method to thresh the grain was known except by flail or by tramping it out by riding horses over it on the barn floor and the fanning mill to clean it. During the Winter six-horse teams were hitched to the old English covered wagons and the grain hauled to the Baltimore and Philadelphia markets, returning with store goods and merchandise. Flax was raised and spun into linen and wool into woolen goods. The ladies found time to spin, weave, do general housework and occasionally assist in the field.

Emanuel Stover and wife were buried on the old Stover farm, and both were members of the German Baptist church. C: Elizabeth, Polly, Susan, John, Hannah, Jacob, Catharine, David, Daniel, Samuel.

IV. Daniel Carl Stover, b at Greencastle, Pa, May 9, 1839; m Mary Clara Porter. Early in Mr Stover's boyhood he gave evidence of inventive ingenuity. He well remembers a conversation between his father and Rev David Long, when he was yet quite a boy. His father stated to Mr Long "that he feared Dan would never amount to anything; he is not satisfied to work like others, but is all the time trying to improve or find some easier way of doing the work. It is a pity he was not born in my time, for then there was use for this disposition, but now everything is invented that can be of any use, so there is nothing further to be done." Mr Long quite agreed with his father and that settled it, for he thought they knew it all. But his disposition to invent was like Cæsar's ghost, it would not down, and from that day to this his happiest moments are when he is inventing something new. If the old adage, "He that causes two blades of grass to grow where but one grew formerly is a public benefactor," is true, then Mr Stover has his reward.

When about 20 years of age he went to California, where he remained about two years. Returning home he went to northern Illinois and located at Freeport, where he has since been engaged in manufacturing wind engines and farm machinery, and can now boast of having the largest wind mill manufactory in the world. He also manufactures the noted "Phoenix Bicycle," one of the six leading standard wheels of the United States. In 1886 he served as Alderman of the City of Freeport, and is now president of the Henny Buggy Works, and also president of the State Bank of Freeport. P O Freeport, Ill. Mrs S, Baptist. At the age of 17 Mr Stover managed the home farm near Greencastle, Pa, for his brother Jacob, while the latter served in the army and at 19 taught school. He afterward engaged with his brother Jacob in the nursery business, which led to the planting of a large peach orchard of 5000 trees at Edgemont, Md, on the west slope of the South Mountain. The success of this orchard led to the planting of over 1,000,000 peach trees in western Maryland and southern Pennsylvania, bringing wealth and prosperity to many families and land owners and advancing the standing and morality of the people along the slopes, where the land had formerly been considered almost worthless for farming purposes. In 1896 he moved to Fruitdale, Ala, a promising fruit section, where he now resides.

Here a promising colony of Northern people, principally of the German Baptist Brethren, have established a seminary, college and church, which center is attracting home seekers, who are in search of a mild and healthful climate, from many of the Northern and Western States. All the members of his family and himself have adopted the faith of their great ancestor, Bishop William Stover. P O Fruitdale, Ala. WILL OF RALPH STOVER FRETZ.

The eighth clause of the will of Ralph Stover Fretz, bequeathing $20,000 to United States "towards extinguishing the National Debt:"

"EIGHT: Considering that I have been greatly blessed, and that I have an undying attachment to the Government of the United States, the Country of my birth, and remembering that by reason of my age and infirmities during the recent unnatural rebellion to destroy it, I was unable to render service in the field to put down and punish that great crime, and being not unmindful that a huge public burthen of indebtedness has been necessarily incurred in accomplishing that object, I desire not only to leave behind me when I am gone an humble testimonial of the gratitude I feel towards those whose virtues and valor and sacrifices and services preserved what I regard as the best Government man was ever permitted to have, but beyond that and in addition to paying the ordinary taxes on my estate. I think it a duty out of the means Providence in His Bounty has enabled me to acquire and the Laws of my Country aided me to preserve, to do something towards extinguishing the National Debt; Therefore, moved thereto by the foregoing causes only, I hereby give and bequeath unto the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States of America, in trust and to be applied only towards cancelling the National Debt, the sum of Twenty Thousand Dollars."

Dated SAN FRANCISCO, May 1. 1867.
